INAUGURESS BY PRESIDENT KEATING

Eloquent Plea For Higher Education Among Irish Catholics---Pars For the Future of the Hibernians.

Special to the Gazette.

Denver, July 17.—President John T. Keating delivered the biennial report before the Ancient Order of Hibernians this afternoon. The report contains about 4,200 words and covers the work of the order under his presidency and also makes a number of recommendations. Among other things he said: "I am much pleased to say that the report to be submitted to your committee will prove that the order has made rapid strides on the road of progress. The term just closed has been one of rare experience and development of the order to meet the new needs and competition which in many sections interfered with our growth numerically. We are the strongest body in the world comprised of one nationality and belonging to one religion. Our development has kept pace with national evolution and changes of environment."

After reciting the financial history of the order during the past two years, he said: "Your splendid generosity and sympathy with the struggling Boers of South Africa enabled the Irishmen of this country to equip and send to the Transvaal an ambulance corps composed of members of the Irish societies. In connection with the ambulance corps I desire to say that the best thanks of the order are due to the United States consul at Lourenzo Marques, Mr. Hollis.

"The growth of the order is such that, I am of the opinion that there is need for additional officers for the better management and to meet the needs of the order where until now our numbers were few. I believe the country ought to be divided into six districts, each district to be under charge of one national directory who should be held responsible for the progress of the order in the district.

"I am pleased to be able to report that on May 7, 1901, my correspondence with Australia bore good fruit and the convention of the Hibernian Australasian society adopted the following rules: Any branch of the society may accept a clearance of a member of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in America provided he also produce to the branch a medical certificate that he is in good health and complies with the other conditions of the society's law. The request is made that we adopt a similar resolution and I respectfully invite your favorable consideration of the request.

"I respectfully recommend that the delegates here assembled give favorable consideration to the needs of the Gaelic league in Ireland. The expense of keeping the Gaelic language in the old land has been carried on under most unfavorable circumstances and supported only by voluntary subscriptions. To the great work of reviving the use of the old tongue, the Gaelic league has linked encouragement of native industries, thus providing means to check the exodus of the population which has been made all through France and Ireland.

"The enlistment of the interests of the Irish women in the great work of our society means the speedy conclusion of any vexed problems which present themselves. It also provides an additional incentive to the members of the order who are now realizing the fact that the work of the order is not confined to the spheres of benevolence or national enterprise. I had the honor to invite your attention two years ago to the desirability of introducing the study of Irish history in our schools. I am much pleased with the practical manner in which the national pride in the powerful influence as patriotic interests and national development of the work of the order.

"Give the children a chance in life's battle. Give them an opportunity to pull us up higher. Don't grumble because they are studying what you were not asked to study when you were young. Give them an opportunity of developing whatever latent talent is in them and discovering what they are best suited for. Don't stop their growth in the misnamed business colleges and crowded stores or workshops. Let them have a few more years in school and you will find the proper school for them. Let us do this and among the captains of industry who in the future will rule the world, the Irish Catholic of old will hold the high place in humanity than that which won the proud title of Ireland of saints and scholars.

The great and pressing necessity of the day is education of character to befit our youth to hold their own in the keen and trying struggle in the arena of modern life. The education I refer to is not the mere rudimentary instruction of the primary and grammar schools which is unfortunately all the majority of our people think is necessary to give our children. It is not the mere instruction in what is termed by pedagogues the irreducible minimum of education, namely, spelling well, computing correctly, reading grammatically and pronouncing words properly. The three "r's," reading, riting, rithmetic, have given way to the three "h's," head, heart and hands, and here is where I ask your consideration in our Catholic wants in the school curriculum provided for our little ones. We must not content ourselves with giving the boy the education which fits him to be a clerk or a salesman with no equipment for progress towards the upper class in the field of industry. We must see that our schools can provide the boy with manual training, higher mathematics, and instruction in science. Is it possible that Irish Catholic parents are losing the grand ambition to educate their children which at one time was the distinguishing characteristic of our people?

"Is it possible that we will be content to have our children occupying subordinate positions in the army of industry? I grant that the learned professions of law and medicine may now be over-crowded and I think I hear someone say there is little room at the top in any calling. Permit me to reply there is room for all who can get there. The professions today are not as remunerative as other callings in life. Commerce, mining, railroading, civil and electric engineering, architectural building, literature and I may say the fine arts, are callings which will never be overcrowded and where brains and natural ability backed up by education cannot fail to win profit and fame. But, alas! How few parents among our people turn their eyes toward those beautiful fields awaiting the skilled husbandman.

"I grant you that all the boys must begin at the bottom, but it will be the boy with the educated head, the trained hand and the true heart who will reach the top. The public high schools and normal colleges are the primary schools of modern materialism. In them can be found no standard of right, in them can be found no influence which will keep the youth loyal to the Catholic precept. We must provide the Catholic training school and the Catholic commercial school for our youth. It will require sacrifice, but if we are loyal to the hope that those who follow us will be true to faith and motherland, we must provide an equipment for them which will enable them to preserve our cause under the new conditions which will surround them in the future.

"Give the children a chance in life's battle. Give them an opportunity to pull us up higher. Don't grumble because they are studying what you were not asked to study when you were young. Give them an opportunity of developing whatever latent talent is in them and discovering what they are best suited for. Don't stop their growth in the misnamed business colleges and crowded stores or workshops. Let them have a few more years in school and you will find the proper school for them. Let us do this and among the captains of industry who in the future will rule the world, the Irish Catholic of old will hold the high place in humanity than that which won the proud title of Ireland of saints and scholars.

JAMES P. BREE.,
National Secretary Whose Re-Election is Practically Assured.

the view of giving you the best advice it may be my power and duty to afford, deem it best to say to you that the safest position for the Ancient Order of Hibernians in America is dignified neutrality as a national body. The mark of race elevation, national education and true benevolence to which you have so nobly devoted ourselves must not be imperiled through alliance of our order with bodies it cannot control."

The above sentence is in reference to the proposed talk of the affiliation of the order with some political party, and shows conclusively that President Keating does not wish to affiliate with any party.

"Your chosen task finds its field on American soil and among American people descended from the exiles. Its leaders bent on novelty will strive to divide the Celt born on Irish soil from the Celt born beneath the Stars and Stripes. Yours is the secret duty to denounce the toleration of such unworthy thoughts, and yours in the noble privilege of declaring before the people of the nation your utter abhorrence of the idea that the accident of birth-place should cause rivalry or should engender faction among those from our race.

"The Ancient Order of Hibernians in America cannot or will not be the servant or ally of any men or association of men no matter how worthy their character or how peaceful their attitude. We desire to be at peace with all and our wishes are dictated by sound policy and interest in the advancement of our race. We have no favors and need express no differences. We will labor to perpetuate a true manhood among our people who find their home in this republic and among the children who may follow them. We will find congenial labor in this field and desire not to wander where enterprising adversaries may claim our presence or indorsement of their wares. Our labor is not for to-day but rather for the future. Our work is not for the gratification of individual ambition but for the satisfying of the aspirations inherent in a race who, striving upward in their travail encourage others to have confidence in truth and manhood.

"As a miner tries to win from the unwilling rock the golden reward and subjects the ore to intricate process of purification, so must we toil to bring to the surface better elements of the exiled Gael. Casting aside the dross with unsparing hand and preserving for the betterment of mankind the nobler attributes of our race. As the invalid seeks the purer rarified air on those lofty hills and revelces in renewed health, so must we rise above the petty troubles of a lower life and, walking on higher planes, prove ourselves worthy scions of a nation defeated but not conquered, and show ourselves worthy disciples of the name which alone can bring to man happiness and to nations peace. Let our society labor to make the exile's influence potent in the councils of the republic. Let us encourage American enterprise to look for opportunity in Ireland. Let us see if we cannot create a market for Irish store if we must buy foreign manufacture. Let us by practical endeavor rather than by charity or oratorical sympathy show we mean what we say in Ireland's behalf. Let us educate our children in the knowledge of the history of the old land. Let us inspire them with the lessons to be learned from that past. Let us urge all our people to win for us the claim that we are the best of all American citizens.

"With the power of Columbia, with the awakened industrial ambition of Erin; with the educated sympathy of the coming generation; with the strength of our position in American communities, we cannot fail to throw aside the barriers which have stood between Ireland and prosperity. It needs but the effort, but the effort must be made by ourselves. When our society has educated our people to self labor and self-reliance, those who love the old land may truly say, 'Ireland of destiny; Innisfail; for thy face is the payment near;

The mine of the future is open, and the golden veins appear.

Thy hands are white and the page is unstained. Reach out for thy glorious years,

PRESIDENT MITCHELL SPOKE AGAINST SYMPATHETIC STRIKE

Clear Statement of What Should be the Attitude of the Anthracite Miners---Contrasts---Control of Members---Not Expected to Strike.

By Associated Press.

Indianapolis, July 17.—If the voice and influence of President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers shall prevail with the members of his organization there will be no general strike of the organization. The chances of such a step being taken now are very remote. In his speech in the convention this afternoon Mr. Mitchell advised strongly against a strike and urged that the bituminous miners continue at work and that a system of assessments upon the members of the order, which he outlined, be carried into effect as the best means of affording aid and support to the striking anthracite men in the east.

His recommendations if adopted by the convention this afternoon would have settled the entire question for which the convention was called and an immediate adjournment would have followed.

A motion to adopt the suggestions of President Mitchell provoked a long debate in which the general sentiment was against the ordering of a strike. The men from the anthracite regions finally made a request that they be allowed to hold a caucus to determine upon an expression of opinion as to what they thought the convention should do and asked an adjournment of the convention for this purpose. Their request was granted and the adjournment taken. The men who were in favor of a strike were in a decided minority in the convention.

When the convention met in the afternoon a motion was made and carried that the convention go at once into executive session. John P. Reese of Iowa moved a reconsideration of the vote by which this action was taken. He declared secret sessions undesirable.

The speech of Mr. Reese in support of his motion carried the day. The vote was reconsidered and it was decided that the meetings of the convention would be open to the public.

Mr. Mitchell then made his address, in part as follows:

"Gentlemen: In opening this convention I deem it my duty to make a few preliminary remarks and to suggest in a series of recommendations the policy which would, in my judgment, best protect the interests of the striking anthracite mine workers and preserve unimpaired the integrity of our entire organization.

"In determining the grave and important question which now confronts you, namely, the advisability of inaugurating a national suspension of coal mining in defense of our struggling fellow workers in the anthracite field of Pennsylvania, it is imperative that you should weigh with the greatest possible care the consequences which will follow which you have to deal. Neither passion nor prejudice should influence your action in any particular.

"I have been so closely associated with the struggles of the anthracite mine workers that it gives me more than language can express to say that my views are not in accord with the views expressed by some in favor of a national suspension of coal mining. I have during all my life as the labor movement declared that contracts mutually made should during their life be kept inviolate, and while at times it may appear to the superficial observer or to those immediately concerned that advantage could be gained by setting aside such agreements, such advantage, if gained, would, in the very nature of things, be temporary. It would ultimately result in disaster, because a disregard of contracts strikes at the very vitals of organized labor. The effect of such action would be in direct confidence, to arrange in open hostility to our cause all forces of society, and to crystalize public sentiment in opposition to our movement.

"Sympathetic strikes are many adherents and the efficacy of such methods appeals strongly to those who, being directly involved in trouble, do not always recognize the effect of their action upon the public mind; but the past history of the labor movement teaches lessons that should not be forgotten today. As far as my knowledge goes, I do not know of one solitary sympathetic strike of any magnitude which has been successful; on the contrary, the most conspicuous among the sympathetic labor struggles have resulted in ignominious and crushing defeat, not only for the branch of industry originally involved, but also for the divisions participating through sympathy. In my judgment the United Mine Workers should not repeat the mistakes which, like milestones, mark the path trod by the toiling masses in their never ceasing struggle for better and higher civilization.

"I am firm in my conviction that the strike in the anthracite fields can and will be won without repudiating our solemn contracts with the bituminous operators, provided the bituminous miners will rise to the occasion and do their full duty by their struggling fellow workers, and with this in mind, I desire to submit for your consideration the following specific recommendations:

"1. That the national secretary-treasurer be authorized and instructed to appropriate $5,000 from the funds in the national treasury and place it at the disposal of the officers of districts 1, 7 and 9.

"2. That all districts and local unions be apportioned in the following manner to pay into their treasuries such large amounts as they can [illegible] that one [illegible] possible [illegible] to the national secretary-treasurer.

"4. That an assessment of [illegible] be levied upon all members [illegible] sub-districts officers [illegible] amount to $60 per month or [illegible].

"5. That an appeal be made to the American trade unions and the general public for financial assistance to carry the strike through to a successful issue.

"6. That a committee be [illegible] this convention to draft an address to the American people setting forth the policy of the organization and appealing to the people to bring all possible pressure to bear upon the officials of the anthracite [illegible] of the anthracite [illegible] carrying the strike to a successful issue, to urge the adoption of the policy of compulsory arbitration.

On a motion to adopt the recommendations of President Mitchell [illegible] speeches were made, the [illegible] in favor of the recommendation of President Mitchell being in the proportion of three to one against.

An adjournment was taken [illegible] 10 o'clock Friday morning, to give the anthracite men time to hold a caucus.

At the caucus of the anthracite delegation held tonight it was decided to oppose any general strike. It was also decided to stand by the recommendations of President Mitchell with the exception of the one [illegible] of an assessment of one [illegible] on members of the anthracite [illegible] ment should be [illegible] be on a percentage basis [illegible] Ohio tonight took action [illegible] that of Illinois.

The Iowa miners held a caucus in the evening and decided to uphold the action of President Mitchell. The action of the caucuses tonight [illegible] strike practically out of the question.

The meeting of the anthracite men held after the adjournment of the convention resulted in nothing but the conclusion that there was no way in which a strike could be [illegible] the members of the anthracite [illegible] who were anxious for a strike were disappointed. There was a [illegible] in the caucus and finally a [illegible] decided upon, but when it was [illegible] partially taken it was [illegible] result would be so [illegible] upholding the [illegible] President Mitchell that the [illegible] concluded. While there was [illegible] among the anthracite men [illegible] greatly disappointed, it is not likely any fight will be made [illegible] floor of the convention.

President Mitchell said [illegible]

"I am greatly gladdened [illegible] come of work which has been done so far and I have [illegible] follow out [illegible] the convention.

TOPACY STILL KEEPS EVERYBODY GUESSING

By Associated Press.

Seattle, Wash., July 17.—Harry Tracy was at 10 o'clock this morning reported to have been found and the story of his death was expected at any moment. Sheriff Cudihee located the desperado in a lonely cabin three-quarters of a mile from the junction of the Northern Pacific Palmer cut-off and the Columbia & Puget Sound railroad. He was supposed to be alone with two companions. Cudihee, with six guards, waited until 10 o'clock this morning for Tracy or either of his companions to come from the cabin. Growing impatient the sheriff ordered an attack upon the place and the guards closed in, firing as they advanced. Not a shot came from the cabin and when Cudihee cautiously pushed in the door they found the place empty. There were evidences that the house had been occupied very recently and it is believed that the outlaw and his desperate companions crept out of it from their place of imprisonment during the darkest hours of the morning.

A boat has been chartered and long on Lake Sawyer not far from the ravine and it is almost certain that the desperadoes took that means of escape.

ENTERTAIN PRELATES OF ORDER

Special to the Gazette.

Denver, Colo., July 17.—At the opening session of the Ancient Order of Hibernians an explanation made by Bishop Thomas J. Conaty of the Catholic university in Washington of the expenditures of the $50,000 donated to the university by the Hibernians for maintaining a chair of Gaelic in the university and the reasons for the deposing of Father Henebry as professor of this chair, practically ends the possibility of the latter's being reinstated. It was charged by the Rev. Father Yorke of San Francisco that Father Henebry was unjustly deposed by the trustees and that they had not used funds for the purpose for which it was donated. He came here at the beginning of the convention in the interest of Father Henebry, whom he wished to have reinstated and expected the convention to censure the action of the trustees. Bishop Conaty came to Denver to reply to these charges. He gave an itemized account of the use of the funds and stated that Father Henebry had been deposed because his health prevented his doing the work successfully. At the close of his speech, the convention tendered him a vote of thanks for the explanation of the affair and expressed their approval of the action of the trustees, Father Yorke alone dissenting. It is believed this ends the matter.

Bishop Conaty stated that Dr. Dunn, a graduate of Yale, had been selected to fill the vacancy. The rest of the session was devoted to routine service. After the submitting of the [illegible] session. The convention was so well pleased with it that it was decided to publish 10,000 copies of the report and distribute them among the delegates and other Hibernians throughout the United States. Copies of the address by Bishop Matz and the sermon by Father Harry at the Sacred Heart church are to be published and distributed.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were distributed among the delegates. The secretary's report shows that with the fiscal biennial period ending December 1, 1901, the order has in the United States and Canada 1,108 divisions with a total membership of 107,577. During the period there was an increase of 7,272 members. The total receipts of the order during the two years were $1,825,329.65. There were $381,534.35 expended for sick benefit and $118,398.26 expended for charity. The total disbursements of the order during the two years were $930,338.26, leaving a balance on hand of $1,076,018.78. The report also showed that the order has real and personal property to the value of $374,012.35. The secretary also gave a report of the Ladies Auxiliary for the term ending December 31, 1901. It shows that within the United States and the Canadian provinces there are 493 divisions with a total membership of 21,876. The total receipts for the years were $189,682.76, of which amount $48,456.63 was expended for sick and funeral benefits, $6,721.93 for charitable purposes, and $33,007.54 for maintenance and incidental expenses, leaving a balance on hand of $101,497.57.

The committee on insurance reported as recommended to the order the adoption of the plan of insurance as in effect in the state of Illinois which was investigated and approved by the insurance commissioners of Illinois. A number of resolutions were reported and returned without reading to the committee on resolutions. The convention adjourned at 4 o'clock. Tomorrow morning's session will be devoted to the report of the committee on resolutions and it is expected that it will be the most interesting session so far held, for a number of the resolutions will provoke debate.

At the session of the Ladies Auxiliary, the delegates were addressed by the Right Reverend Bishop Conaty, who advised them to follow the example of the men in endowing a chair of Gaelic in Trinity college and to make an appropriation for that purpose. National Treasurer P. T. Ryan of Washington, Father Byrne and Father Berry also delivered addresses. It has been suggested that the Ladies Auxiliary shall form an advisory board of women who shall sit in joint session with the national directory. This board is to govern the auxiliary with the consent of the men. A [illegible] many ladies are in favor of this [illegible] and a committee was appointed to confer with the [illegible] on the advisability of adopting [illegible] It this is done it [illegible]

Good Reasons for Getting In

"I am subscribing for the Gazette," said a business man who came into the counting room yesterday, "because I can get more for my money right now than in any other way that I know. We have been taking a Denver paper up at our house because we moved here less than a year ago and naturally supposed that we could get more news out of it than we could from the local paper. We lived in a small city in the east and every morning we got the New York papers for breakfast. The town papers were very, poor things indeed. So when we came here my wife suggested that we have the Denver papers and get all the news because she did not know any one here anyhow.

"That was a mistake. We find that we get the eastern news in the Gazette and the home news, too. This morning my girl came in with the announcement that a friend of hers is going into a contest of some kind that you have on and she wanted to put in some votes.

"Then my wife chimed in with the declaration that you are going to run a serial story that she is bound to read if she has to get up mornings and steal copies of the Gazette from the neighbor's doorsteps. What do you call that story, 'The Dog from Baskerville?'

She says that the book has been in the public library for the past six weeks but she can't get her name in half a mile of it.

"So here I am. Put me down for six months' subscription and where is that agent of the Denver paper? I'll shut him off right now."

The gentleman sounded a true note. By subscribing now for two months you get to read the great detective story, "The Hound of the Baskervilles," which begins to run in the Gazette on August 4.

Then for two months' subscription you get 150 votes in the contests that close on September 1. The Gazette gives a piano, a phonograph and a bicycle in order to the most popular young woman employed by any business house in El Paso county. There is going to be a lively contest. The piano can be seen at Jett's music house, the phonograph at Weber's and the bicycle at A. S. Blake's.

Summer visitors are going to take a hand. They have a candidate for the most popular lady now visiting here. Indeed they have a lot of candidates. The popular one gets a $250 phaeton. It is now on exhibition at E. W. Davis' carriage house.

Water Rioting Again Discussed

The mass meeting held in division one of the district court last evening for the purpose of further discussing the question of relieving the water famine existing in Victor, was, like the meeting of Wednesday night, very small in point of numbers.

Mayor Robinson presided and in a plain business talk thoroughly explained the condition of the Colorado Springs water supply and also spoke at some length on the situation existing at Victor. He stated that Thomas Rice, an employe of the local water department, had visited the Victor reservoir at the instigation of the water committee of the city council and had found matters in a very serious condition. At the time of his visit no water was running into the reservoir and the supply had become so depleted that its level was below the feed pipe leading into the main pipe line. His visit was made prior to the rain of yesterday and he night before last, which it is understood has in a measure relieved the distress of the Victor people.

At the close of his remarks Mayor Franklin of Victor addressed the meeting. He stated that the rains of the past two days had relieved the situation somewhat and that if they continued for a short time longer the distress at that point would be over. He requested a little further assistance stating that it would probably be the last time it would be necessary for the people of Victor to ask aid from the citizens of Colorado Springs. In closing, he thanked the council and residents of this city for the aid they have extended in the past.

A general discussion of the subject followed, the trend of sentiment being in favor of letting the city council and the members of the water committee follow their own judgment in the premises.

The meeting adjourned at 10 o'clock and Mayor Franklin and the members of his party left for home at midnight.

BEAUTIFUL BOOK OF SCENERY

One of the most beautiful picture books about Colorado Springs that has ever been issued was placed on sale yesterday. It is called "Colorado Springs and Vicinity." As a souvenir of Colorado Springs and vicinity the book is not excelled. As a thing of beauty each picture is something to linger over, even for one who has long been satiated with mountain scenery.

This book was issued by the Williamson-Haffner Engraving company of Denver, under the direction of Foltz & Hardy of this city. There are 24 full page engravings, the pictures having been made by Stevens, Harland and Bristami, the best known scenic men of this region.

The scenes are finished in black and white, a perfect reproduction of the finest platinum photography. To do the work two plates were used and then each picture is embossed. Each print is mounted on a black background. The cover is a light green, with red embossed letters. In the center is a miniature of the Garden of the Gods. It is a work of art.

The pictures are well selected. Among the most notable are Stevens' famous "Sunset on Pike's Peak," and "Moonlight from the Peak." These are copyrighted pictures and it is the first time that they have ever been used in this way. The centerpiece is a panoramic view of the Garden of the Gods and the Peak.

The book sells for 75 cents and is going very fast. A representative of Foltz & Hardy placed 600 copies of the book in Denver on Wednesday in a few hours.

MANITOU WATER FREE IN COLORADO SPRINGS

Probably not many people know that a stream of genuine sparkling soda water like that at Manitou spouts out of the ground not far from the business center of Colorado Springs, and that any man may have all of it he can carry away by just going after it. The spring is at 27 West Cheyenne street, a block from Dr. Parker's pharmacy, which is at 321 West Kiowa street, just at the foot of the hill, on the car line.

Mr. Dr. Parker, who owns the pharmacy, also owns the spring, and instead of charging his new revolving fountain of Moorish design, with common city water, as most do, he always uses the crystal water from his soda spring. He uses the freshest fruits, too, and can concoct most delicious drinks of all kinds.

Tourists and people not well acquainted with the city often ask, especially when passing at night, whose pharmacy it is that is so prettily lighted and looks so cosmopolitan inside, near the beginning of Colorado avenue. Of course the reply is, "Don't you know Oscar Parker's Pharmacy?"

CAKEWALK WAS A SUCCESS

Despite the coldness of the weather and the other attractions in the city last night about 400 people attended the cakewalk given on Washburn field. Six couples participated in the walk from this city, Denver and Pueblo. The Pueblo party failed to catch the early train up to this city and the performance was delayed two hours, and the specta ors were obliged to sit in the cold during that time. With this exception the performance was a great success and some very clever cakewalking was given.

The audience was asked to judge the winners and with one accord J. L. Martin, recently of Hot Springs, Ark., but now a resident of this city, and his lady, Miss Essie, Annie of Manitou, were named as the winners of the first prize, the cake and $12 in money. Howard Waters and Miss Thornton captured second prize, $10 in money, and the third prize, $5, went to H. J. Hubenka and Miss Maud Smith. The Midland band gave a nice concert during the evening.

DR. PARSONS ON CHAUTAUQUAS

The Chautauqua movement stands for the education of the people. More and more it is drawing its teachers from university ranks, so that it is one of the effective agencies which are bringing the university and the people together and solving the problem of university extension.

To succeed, a Chautauqua should be located in a place to which students and teachers will be glad to come for the summer, a place easily accessible, with an endurable climate, with scenic surroundings and abundance of opportunities for out-of-door recreation. It is a distinct advantage that it be on a great travel route, for it will then be easy to secure as speakers persons who could not otherwise be persuaded to address the gatherings. It is also a distinct advantage that it be located under the shadow of an institution of learning which can suggest and advise concerning courses and faculty, can aid with library and laboratory facilities, and can be a powerful influence in the creation of an educational atmosphere in which alone the best work of such a summer assembly can be done.

Anyone acquainted with Colorado Springs knows that it has all these qualifications in overflowing measure. It has scenic surroundings, abundant and varied opportunities for open air recreation, in a climate hardly to be surpassed. It is on a great route of transcontinental travel. It is the home of Colorado college, an institution constantly enlarging its facilities and the boundaries of its influence. Certainly there is no place in all the mountain states nor in those lying immediately east of them which so completely unites in itself so many qualifications for a great educational enterprise like the Chautauqua which is so soon to begin its session here. To support it heartily is to do one thing more to make Colorado Springs what it is certain to become if its citizens are awake to their opportunity, an educational center of great distinction and influence.

WILL FIGHT THE INSECTS

The president of the Horticultural society has appointed the following committee to have charge of the spraying upon the trees of the city in the endeavor to do some practical work for the extermination of the multitude of the insect pests which are at present troubling us: Chairman, R. J. Coryell, gardener to Wm. J. Palmer; Francis Capell, chairman of the committee of the city council on public grounds, and Mr. E. H. Every. Each of the above members has accepted this duty feeling that a crisis in the preservation of our vegetation is at hand, and from the character of the men we can feel that this is not undertaken as play.

As has been stated in these columns, Prof. Gillette, the expert of the State Agricultural college, has been sent for and should be here within a few days to superintend the work. The insecticide has been shipped from New York and a new spraying apparatus is owned by the Deaf and Blind institute which it is believed will do the work. Under these circumstances there should be little delay in getting to actual work.

This committee will have the full cooperation of the city council in receiving access to every property where it is found that the trees or plants are infested with insects or fungus diseases.

The aim of the Horticultural society is to treat plants in different localities in the city as an object lesson to the citizens, and to get all information and experience as to the solutions which may be successfully used under local conditions. It is not asking too much that every citizen afford the society every facility for the successful carrying out of his work.

JUST OUT COURT CASES

In Justice Luby's court yesterday morning the firm of Crowell & Lombard, attorneys, were given a judgment for $115 and costs, for services rendered Alexander Hirschenfeld in the well-known Hirschenfeld divorce suit.

It will be remembered that the parties to the suit, Alexander and Fannie Hirschenfeld, kissed and made up between the time of the granting of the divorce by the jury and the signing of the decree by the judge. Hirschenfeld then decided there was no use in giving up coin for attorney's fees, hence the suit which was decided yesterday.

Constable Radcliff of Justice McClelland's court, yesterday morning arrested Mrs. H. H. Kirkpatrick on a warrant sworn out by Mrs. J. H. Whitcomb. Disturbance is the alleged charge.

A plot of garden ground is apparently the "casus belli" between the two women. It appears that early this spring Mrs. Kirkpatrick planted vegetable seeds of various kinds in the back yard of her residence at that time. Subsequently she moved to another domicile and the Whitcombs moved into the house thus vacated.

The beautiful appearance of the verdure yesterday morning after Wednesday night's rain, evidently recalled to Mrs. Kirkpatrick her spring-time energy in "sowing the seed in the noonday's glare," and she decided to repair to the scene of her toil and secure a few vegetables for the family larder. Mrs. Whitcomb, it is said, resented the attempt of Mrs. Kirkpatrick to harvest her crop and it is alleged turned the hose on her. Mrs. Kirkpatrick did not enjoy the impromptu bath and seizing an axe, cut up the hose.

Hearing of the case is set for Saturday morning at 9 o'clock before Justice McClelland.

"How perfectly delightful everything is."

"What a lovely dinner for a hot day."

"As long as I can get such a dinner as this I don't want any meat."

"I am going to bring my friends tomorrow."

"This is the finest dinner I ever ate."

Said and Done

The railroad men representing roads comprising the Western Passenger association, which has been in session at the Antlers hotel for the past few days, include some of the brightest and most enterprising hustlers for business to be found in the United States. To a party who were sitting in the lobby last evening it was told how Major Hooper, of the Rio Grande, went half way around the world to secure advertising that caused his road to be talked about and favorably mentioned not only in the Orient, but throughout Asia, Europe and the United States.

It was prior to the outbreak in the Philippines and about two months after the publication of the first issue of the Manila American. The genial major received a copy of the American one day, and the next day the mail for the orient carried back copy for an ad. for the Rio Grande railroad. The copy reached the office of the paper after the outbreak, and at a time when the "boys" of the Colorado and other western regiments were sending large numbers of the papers back to this country. When the people of the west went to read of the valor and heroic work of their lads in the Philippines, they saw staring them in the face the familiar cut and ad of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad. The ad was commented on by English papers in Hong-kong, Singapore, Calcutta and other points throughout Asia. The large papers in this country, including the Baltimore American, commented favorably upon the enterprise of the representative of the Rio Grande road, so that while the major paid for about four inches of space, he received advertising that was worth many thousands of dollars.

A clever advertising scheme has been devised by Manager Marucchi of the Antlers, who yesterday received the drawings from which cuts will be made for the engraving of cards. On the left will be a representative of a small, spare and angular, who looks as if he needed rest and all the good things which contribute to making life worth living, while on the right is the figure of a man who has the appearance of being well fed and in the best of health, rotund and jolly.

It is "before and after taking," and the inscription will be "When first I came to—and after four weeks at—The Antlers." A second card will bear the figures of the women: "before" will be that of a lady afflicted with embonpoint, while "after" will be one who has reduced her flesh and has a trim and youthful figure and the appearance of being in the flush of health.

"There was a funny thing happened here at the Antlers this afternoon," said the Talkative Man in the lobby last evening. "A man came in and walked around, looking at the pictures on the wall, peering into the parlors, the sun room and the diningroom. He took a drink of water from the fountain, but he did not get so far as to sit down in any of the chairs, standing for several minutes after he had taken in everything, apparently thinking over the situation. Suddenly he started and sauntered over to the office and said to the clerk: 'Say, mister, is this a hotel?'

"The clerk gravely responded that it was and asked the man if he wanted a room. He sighed and said he didn't, but he volunteered the information that he was from Missouri. Say, I think I'm not so very dull, but tell me, honestly, do you think that the joke is on the hotel or is it on the man? Do you think that it looked too good to be true, or do you really think the man came from the wilds of Missouri and never happened to see a real hotel before?"

The Gazette talk artist gave it up.

SAN[illegible] "MACS" [illegible] DENVER WON [illegible]

[illegible] Costs Money to Do Violence to an Umpire.

New Players Graced the Field on Both Sides.

$70.70 WAS THE AMOUNT

DENVER LATEST IS A PITCHER

[illegible] Manager McKibben and Pitcher McFadden of the "Saints," found out yesterday that it pays to make a really tough rowdy of himself, or at least to let it crop out before a crowd of ladies and gentlemen. It also costs money, even if it does not [illegible] the evil entirely and only revives it for a little while under the surface.

Deputy Sheriff Dayton gathered the "Saints" in yesterday and took them before Justice Ruby for the administration of a lesson, and the result was that they left Colorado Springs last night just $70.70 poorer.

The cases against the manager and the player of the visiting team were taken up by Assistant District Attorney F. J. Black, who declared that there must be decent baseball played in this city or he would stop all the games here. His stand in the matter has been very highly commended by all patrons of the national game who desire good, clean sport and by many of the leading citizens of this city.

A charge of assault and battery was also lodged against McKibben and one of assault with a deadly weapon against McFadden, and there was a heated argument over the matter in the office of Justice Ruby, before whom the prisoners were taken. There was a compromise, however, with the result that the fighters pleaded guilty to disturbance and each was fined $25 and costs, which was paid.

That was not all that happened, however.

Yesterday morning Mr. Burns received an answer to the wire he sent President Dillon of the Western league, demanding the suspension of McKibben and McFadden, and they were suspended pending a complete investigation of the disgraceful affair.

The fain of yesterday afternoon may have proved providential, as Manager McKibben declared his intention, despite Mr. Burns' declaration to the contrary, of entering the grounds while yesterday's game was being played. Trouble was prevented by the rain, on account of which the game could not be played.

Bert Davis Umpired the Game and Made Good—Grizzlies Go Fishing Today.

Special to the Gazette.

Denver, July 17.—Batting averages took a flight today. Neither of the teams could connect the bat with the ball worth a cent and as a result 11 innings were played before Denver scored the winning run. It was a beautiful battle between Eyler and Weimer with honors even. Only two runs had been made up to the 11th inning and the score stood one to one. When Denver came to bat in this inning Preston fouled out and Jones sent a high fly just back of first base. Kemmer and Waldron both started to get it but both stopped when within six feet of each other and the ball hit between them and bounded away while Jones bumped himself to second. A moment later Dundon made a clean hit and Jones scored the winning run. The balk by Kemmer and Waldron put a bad taste in everybody's mouth as it was a miserable ending to a splendidly fought game. Manager Packard this morning signed umpire Latham and the gentleman played first base in today's game. He covered the bag to perfection and was one of the five lucky men who made a hit. The crowd was exceedingly liberal in its applause to him. The rest of the game is told in the box score as follows:

Across the Denver Diamond.

Manager Packard has signed a new pitcher. His name is Moskeman and he hails from San Francisco. Like all other new men he has a winning record but Denver will know him better after he has made good by his work.

It was a surprise to everyone to see Latham walk up to the first bag today inclosed in a Denver uniform. The crowd joshed him a little at first, but when he secured the only hit in the first seven innings they gave him the glad hand.

Slats Davis never fails to draw a round of hoots when he comes to bat. His playing at second today was not very good, but he never claimed to be a brilliant two-bagger.

Bert Davis, a local cigar dealer umpired today's game and he was right from start to finish.

Tomorrow is an off day and Mr. Packard has planned to take the Denver boys to Barr lake where they will spend the time fishing.

The Kansas City boys looked exceedingly blue as they passed out of the grounds tonight. Colorado Springs handed them a bunch of two to one and Denver did likewise. Thus they lost four out of their last six games.

AMATEUR GOLF CONTEST

By Associated Press.

Glenview Golf Course, Ill., July 17.—H. M. Byers, Yale golf champion in 1903, and 1904, now a member of the Allegheny club of Pittsburg, today defeated Champion W. J. Travis, one up at the last hole of the third round in the match for the amateur golf championship. Byers score of 77 and Travis' 76 are six and five under Bogie, respectively. Byers won the game after apparently being hopelessly beaten. He was three down at the turn. Travis played perfectly. But he stuck gamely till it had on the last nine holes played by four selected shows even by the fifteen professionals. His medal score for the last nine holes was 35, or six strokes under Bogie. Travis took his defeat like a true sportsman. "I have made the story better than anything I can say," said Travis after the game. "The game Byers put up was one which almost any professional in this country. It was unbeatable."

Byers is a fastest Chandler Egan of Exeter and a brilliant afternoon game. His medal score was 80.

Travis, Champion, though out of the contest for the championship, by the consolation of badly beating Byers in the play off of the tie for the [illegible] given for the lowest score in the qualifying round.

The match at 36 holes will be played [illegible]. Byers will meet Dr. [illegible] and Louis James, who barely [illegible] but who has been playing [illegible] the first day, will contest with F. O. Reinhart.

STATEMENT OF BOSTON MEN ON STRIKE SITUATION

By Associated Press.

Chicago, July 16.—Renewed activity on the part of the Chicago business men followed the settlement of the freight handlers and teamsters strike today and at the close of business hours tonight thousands of tons of freight had been sent to and from the various freight depots. Every man employed had returned to work by 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The strike, it is estimated, cost the business men of Chicago $10,000,000, and in order to guard against such a contingency in the future they are preparing to begin an educational campaign in opposition to the sympathetic strike. The labor unions will be asked to forego the use of this potent weapon. The business interests which suffered through the strike will join in pledging themselves, it is said, not to sign union agreements which do not guard them against these evils.

On the other hand the labor unions are fighting to secure the right to abrogate agreements for the purpose of ordering sympathetic strikes.

The freight handlers blame the national officers of the teamsters for the loss of the strike. They declare that the strike shows the necessity for incorporating in all agreements a reservation which will permit strikes.

Credit for the settlement rests with the state board of arbitration. It was the adoption of the suggestions of that board which led to the act on of the freight handlers union in declaring the struggle with the railroads at an end.

At the same time it is probable that even had the state board not made its suggestions the fight would have been practically over tomorrow, as the majority of the freight handlers had returned to their work before the mass meeting at which the strike was called off officially had convened. It was a knowledge of this fact that had much to do with the action taken by the union. However, the proposition made by the state board of arbitration enabled the freight handlers to retire gracefully from the field.

UNITED STATES' ATTITUDE TOWARD FRIARS' LANDS

By Associated Press.

Washington, July 16.—A high official of the government makes the following statement concerning the negotiations pending in Rome. It can be authoritatively stated that substantially the facts stated in this statement were cabled to Governor Taft in the latest instructions as a basis of his reply to the Vatican.

"In seeking through Governor Taft to secure the peaceful removal of the friars of the four orders in the Philippines it must be borne in mind that the American representatives in the Philippine islands have merely been endeavoring faithfully to carry out the wishes of the people for which they feel themselves bound to stand. It must always be remembered that it is not the United States government which in any way objects to the presence of the friars in the islands. It is the Catholic population of those islands. The lay Catholics almost to a man, especially all of the parish priests, are so violently opposed to the friars that they will not permit them to come back to the parishes, and, as a matter of fact, hold their lands in hostile possession.

"One of the avowed objects of the insurrectionary government under Aguinaldo was to confiscate the friars' lands without any compensation to the church. The United States authorities, recognizing the intensity and bitterness of this feeling among the Filipinos, and at the same time being desirous of acting with the most scrupulous fairness toward the church, were willing to arrange for the purchase of the church lands by the government if the church authorities would withdraw the friars (who are not now, and for many years have not been performing their religious functions among the people) and would replace them with other members of the church who might take up with greater success the highly necessary religious work which they are not able to perform."

FIRE IN LOUISIANA OIL FIELDS RAGING

By Associated Press.

Jennings, La., July 16.—The fire which attacked the oil storage tanks here yesterday afternoon is still uncontrolled. No progress has been made in conquering the flames and if anything they are getting stronger. Late this evening the chemical engine which arrived from Beaumont last night was tried, but it did not even quench the fires in the small streams that extend from the blazing pool. At 4 o'clock four boilers had been connected and as many streams were turned on the fire, but the only apparent effect was to cause the fire to burn fiercer.

ROBBERS PASSED NORTH WITH BANDS

With Bloodhounds From Cañon City.

ROBBERS HEADED SOUTH

Traveling in a Leisurely Way as if They Did Not Fear Pursuit—Rumor of Big Haul.

By Associated Press.

Saguache, Colo., July 16.—A rancher, who arrived from the Calvert ranch at noon today brings news that the posse headed by Special Agent Brown took up the trail of the four Denver & Rio Grande hold-ups at daybreak this morning and expected to come up with the bandits by noon.

Two bloodhounds from Cañon City are with the Brown posse and are doing fine work, although the trail left by the fleeing robbers is generally so plain that it can be followed by men on horseback at a rapid pace. The robbers are heading southward and are traveling in a leisurely manner.

Evidently they do not fear pursuit, as they are taking no precautions to cover their flight. They have camped in open places and when breaking camp have left their fires burning.

The conduct of the bandits has its significance to the men who are hunting them and it means but one thing—that to date train robbers do not propose to separate and risk the danger of being captured, but are keeping together and will give battle to anyone who attempts to arrest them. The hold-ups are well armed, have a goodly supply of food and are familiar with the country through which they are traveling. This has been evidenced time after time to those who have been on their trail. The robbers have always taken the shortest and most easily traveled trails and paths, and their stopping places have always been in close proximity to good water.

The country through which the bandits are fleeing is rough and mountainous, and if the robbers wished they could elude their pursuers indefinitely. But to keep out of sight is evidently not what they wish to do. They are making for the southwest, and in order to reach the New Mexican border are taking chances of meeting some of the numerous posses now out. The country is sparsely populated, and quick communication with one section to another is out of the question. If the bandits were seen, as was reported yesterday, they would have plenty of time to get out of the vicinity before the news of their movements could reach the authorities, and in turn be sent to the various posses.

After holding up the train Monday morning the robbers started southward and Monday night camped near the head of Indian creek, on the western slope of Mount Angora, not over 10 miles from Mill Switch, the scene of the hold-up. Yesterday they followed the creek to its confluence with Middle creek, where they crossed the trail of Sheriff Williams' posse, which passed by the creek earlier in the day.

After crossing Middle creek the robbers started westward over the divide and are now believed to be somewhere in the hills between Sheep and Indian creeks.

Deputy Sheriff Clark and a force of man hunters, all well mounted, started early this morning from the Clark ranch. They are going up Sheep creek and hope to encounter the bandits some time today. A pitched battle is expected if the outlaws and officers meet.

Later, 1 p. m.—A report has just reached here that the posse headed by Special Agent Brown had come up with the bandits and that several shots were exchanged at long distance, but no one was hit. The robbers then disappeared as suddenly as if the earth had swallowed them. Some sensational news has been rejected from the Brown posse before nightfall.

Salida, Colo., July 16—Little of an authentic nature can be learned here regarding the result of the four men who held up and robbed the westbound Denver & Rio Grande express Monday morning near Mill Switch. Railroad men believe that the bandits have made for the mountains around Crestone, a district said to be infested with moonshiners.

A report gained currency this morning that despite the statements of no loss made by the railroad officials the robbers secured $38,000 in gold being shipped to a bank in the southwestern part of the state. This report cannot be verified, but there are many who believe that the robbers did not make a mistake in holding up the wrong train.

SHERIFF CUDIHEE AND TRACY BOTH MISSING

By Associated Press.

Seattle, Wash., July 16.—A special to the Post Intelligencer from Auburn, Washington, says:

Sheriff Cudihee is undoubtedly on still hunt after Convict Tracy, accompanied, perhaps, by one or two trusted lieutenants. Almost every effort has been exhausted to ascertain the sheriff's whereabouts. Cudihee, however, has proved himself Tracy's equal in the matter of sudden disappearance and neither the newspaper men nor the remaining members of the old posse have so far been able to locate him. Deputies are scouring the forests around Ravensdale, Palmer and Covington, but they are unable to find the place of his unexpected exit.

The general belief is that Cudihee is somewhere on the Palmer cut-off. Unless he walked through the woods or drove in a buggy along the unfrequented roads, he has not left that region. Many people in this vicinity fear that Tracy may be doubling back on his track for the White river or Green river valley. If he chooses to follow that course, he will encounter few obstacles. The roads are practically without guards with only one or two exceptions. The Indians on the Muckleshoot reservation are frightened lest Tracy return and from them he would meet with no opposition.

JURY DECIDED THAT BODY WAS MERRILL'S

By Associated Press.

Chehalis, Wash., July 16.—The coroner's jury this evening decided that the body found near here Monday night is that of Harry Merrill, the convict who escaped from the Church penitentiary on June 9, in company with Harry Tracy.

It is alleged that Tracy, while on his way to Seattle, while on his way to [illegible] he killed his partner, [illegible] on a road June 31. Tracy state [illegible] married and finally decided to settle the matter by fighting a duel [illegible] to walk three paces and fire. The wound in Merrill's back would indicate that Tracy fired while his opponent's back was turned. Mrs. [illegible] who found the body in the woods, left for Salem with the body tonight and will claim the reward of $1,500 which was offered by the state for Merrill, dead or alive.

The platform indorses the Kansas City declaration and says:

"We believe that with Democratic success in 1904 the dangers of imperialism, centralization, trusts, monopolies, mergers and other combines hurtful to our people, unjust taxation and kindred evils would no longer confront our country.

"We favor a broad and enlightened policy toward capital and corporations doing business within our state, and towards those seeking to enter our state for the purpose of developing its great natural resources and for the protection of such, as well as for the protection of all our people without regard to conditions, we declare our opposition to trusts, mergers and other combines for the restriction of trade, and demand that the next legislature shall pass a law or amend our present laws so that it will be impossible for such corporations to do business in Texas."

The platform asks for laws to prevent the issuance of free passes. Bryan and free silver were not specifically mentioned.

PRESIDENT ENTERTAINS ROUGH RIDER COMRADE

By Associated Press.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 16.—President Roosevelt is entertaining at Sagamore Hill tonight Robert D. Wrenn, former tennis champion and a member of Troop A of the Rough Riders, when Mr. Roosevelt was colonel of the regiment.

Owen Wister, the novelist of Philadelphia, was expected at Sagamore Hill tonight but telegraphed his inability to come.

Comparatively little work was done by the president today, he and Secretary Loeb disposing of only a few departmental matters which had been brought to their attention from Washington. The president had no comments to make upon the announcement from Washington of the action taken with respect to the court martial cases of General Jacob Smith and Major Lyttle.

CHEYENNE NEGRO BURNED.

By Associated Press.

Clayton, Miss., July 16.—At an early hour this morning William Odey, a negro, was tied to a tree and burned. Odey had outraged a young woman named Virginia Tucker. The negro was saturated with oil and a match applied to the faggots piled around him.

Just before midnight Odey was captured by a posse, bound and brought at once to Clayton. In the meantime news of his capture spread and in all directions mobs began to form. The negro was brought into the presence of Miss Tucker, who positively identified him, although he denied that he was guilty. Odey was taken to a convenient spot in the country near the scene and a bonfire built around a tree. He was told to prepare for death and when the manner of his execution became apparent to him he begged piteously for mercy. He was bound securely and put into the flames and in a short time only his charred bones marked the place of execution.

Miss Tucker was out riding in the country when attacked, and was so violently pulled from a buggy by the negro that both her lower limbs were broken. She is at the point of death as a result of her injuries. The young woman's father is reported to have applied the match to the faggots piled around the negro.

Hard Carbonate G. M. Co. Was the Last to Ratify the Consolidation ---Several Rich Strikes Reported.

Special to the Gazette.

Cripple Creek, July 17.—The deferred annual meeting of the stockholders of the Hard Carbonate G. M. company was held this afternoon at the office of the company in this city. Of a total issued capitalization of 925,000 shares, 862,000 shares were represented and were cast for the following directors: J. D. Hill of Denver, J. T. May, J. W. D. Stovell and W. S. Harwood of Colorado Springs and J. C. Mitchell of Littleton, Colo. The directors will meet at Colorado Springs in the near future and elect officers. The proposition to consolidate the property of this company with the properties of the Helen B., Avalon and Chicolo companies was indorsed by the stockholders and the directors authorized to perfect the consolidation. This is the last company to ratify the consolidation and the new company, the Chicolo Consolidated G. M. company will have a total of 191,173 acres of patented ground, which will be the third largest acreage held by any one company in the Cripple Creek district.

A new development of Crump & Putnam's lease of the Old Davenport workings of the Doctor-Jack Pot company puts this lease in some of the richest ore in the district. The lessees are working on the 385-foot level south of the shaft. At this depth a winze has been sunk and at a depth of 22 feet the lessees have encountered the basalt dike in which Orwig and Ames, operating north of the shaft, are mining very rich ore. The new ore body cut by Crump and Putnam shows plenty of sylvanite and the value of the ore is double that previously mined at this lease. It looks as if the lessees will have 200 feet of the vein. An assay taken today gave a value of $800 in gold to the ton.

There is a report in effect here tonight that one of the richest strikes ever made in the camp has been made in the lower workings of the Last Dollar property on Bull hill. This property has a record for high grade shipments but it is stated that the new ore uncovered is bigger and richer than any before found in the Last Dollar. While the management is reticent regarding the new find and denies it, it is understood that the ore carries values of $7.00 in gold to the pound.

Some rich ore is being mined at the Katherine of the Elkton Consolidated company on Raven hill. The five sets of lessees operating here are all in ore and the set operating between the 400 and 500-foot levels have a carload shipment at market, a portion of which is expected to return an average value of eight ounces of gold to the ton.

Coe & Rice, the owners of the Joe Dandy property on Raven hill, are sending out regular shipments of good grade ore. Yesterday they marketed three carloads of mineral and today one carload went to market. The ore will average two ounces of gold to the ton.

The lessees on the Anaconda company's Gold hill territory continue to make good shipments. Lessee Armstrong of the Superior lodge sent out a carload of $20 ore today. Lessee Morrell on the Grace Greenwood will send out a carload of average grade ore tomorrow. Thayer and Wilson, also operating on this claim, sent out a trial shipment yesterday.

ELKTON DEEPEST PLACE SETTLEMENT

Denies That the Mine Will Be Closed Down---Outlines Ways in Which the Water Can Be Cared For.

Owing to the heavy decline in Elkton stock on the exchange yesterday and the unfounded rumor that the mine would temporarily close down on account of water trouble the chairman of the new executive board, Mr. Sherwood Aldrich, made the following statement for publication yesterday morning:

"It is perfectly clear to me that the Elkton at the present time is, and for the last nine months has been pumping the bulk of the water of the Cripple Creek district. If the property had been equipped with sufficient pumping capacity it would have earned a substantial monthly profit in spite of the expense of handling this water, for the ore bodies of the mine are exceedingly rich. The main difficulty has been that we have been unable to mine in the eighth level longer than two weeks at a time without a breakdown in one of the old pumps which forced us to temporarily cease mining in the eighth level and close the bulkhead. In fact, for nearly three months viz:—during February, March and April we were kept out of the eighth level. It now seems that there are three courses open to the Elkton:

"First. To continue the present hard pumping and mining in the eighth level until the new pumps arrive and are installed in the ninth level.

"Second. To cease mining in the eighth level, close the bulkhead and pump the small amount of water that would leak through the bulkhead into the station until the new pumps are installed in the ninth.

"Third. To stop pumping and let the water rise to its natural level about 60 feet above the Elkton eighth level and remain there until the other mines of the district join us in a mutual pumping arrangement or a general drainage scheme. In the meantime we would confine our operations to the known ore bodies in the seventh level and above and to prospecting the very large and prospected territory of the Elkton company above the water level.

"If either of the latter two lines is followed a substantial monthly profit is a practical certainty. If the first plan is continued a fair monthly profit can be made unless we are too frequently driven out of the eighth level by the breaking down of the pumps. The new executive committee is giving the matter a great deal of thought."

Mr. Aldrich denied the report that the mine would shut down and stated should the water force the management to cease operations in the eighth level temporarily, the present force would be placed at work in the upper levels and especially in the fourth level where the present operations are pleasing to the management. The large bodies of low grade ore in the upper levels could be mined at a profit for the company should the heavy expense of pumping cease.

The pumps were due at the mine July 1, but have been delayed on account of the prolonged labor strike in the east. The water column for the new pumping machinery has been shipped, but the monster pumps are not expected until the end of the month.

Mr. De La Vergne, the new mine manager, is still at the mine looking into the present situation very closely.

In order to reduce office expenses the management is going to give up the handsome suite of offices in the exchange building and take one office on the top floor where the expense of the transfer office will be about $200 a month.

That the mine is a good producer is evidenced by the report at the annual meeting where the average value of the ore for the past year was $36 per ton, in spite of the fact that the operations for the past year have been so much confined to low grade ore bodies. The decline in the stock yesterday was due to the operation of speculation. It was reported from good authority yesterday that two of the officers of the company had offered a block of stock amounting to 125,000 shares for sale at 45 cents a share. Such reports have, of course, brought out some collateral stock, but not to the extent that it has been reported.

MONUMENT CO. PAYS DIVIDEND

The Monument Gold Mining company has declared a dividend from the royalties it has been receiving. The directors of the company met in the offices of the company yesterday and declared a dividend of one cent a share on all the outstanding stock which amounts to 932,000 shares. The capitalization is 1,000,000 shares. The disbursement amounts to $9,320, and will be paid on the 19th. This swells the total dividends paid by the Monument to $27,944. The last dividend was paid in February of 1901, and was $3,000.

The present payment will be made from the royalties received from the Kurtz and Gray lease, operating on a portion of the Monument claim, which is located between the Portland and the Granite on Battle mountain, and is about two acres in all. The south end of the claim is being worked by the Par Value Mining & Leasing company.

In the last three months Kurtz and Gray have shipped $30,000 worth of ore and have paid in royalties $1,000. If this is kept up during the year the company will get $40,000 in royalties. The lessees have their shaft down to the depth of 500 feet. At present they are operating at the 300-foot level and above that depth. This large production has been made in the past three months in spite of the fact that six weeks of delay was experienced on account of breakdown in machinery and impending danger from the Portland dump.

NEW PLANT FOR LAST STAKE

The Last Stake Mining & Leasing company which is operating the Last Stake claim belonging to the American Consolidated Gold Mining company, adjoining the Gold Coin at Victor, are planning to have a new plant of machinery for the better development of the property upon which the leasing company has been working for the past year. The plant that is at present upon the property is a second one and is not adequate to operate at the depth to which the shaft is intended to be sunk. The shaft is now down to the depth of 220 feet and the company intends to sink it to the depth of 750 feet as soon as the new traffic surface improvements are installed. When the latter depth is obtained development work will be pushed forward by drifts. The operating of the leasing company down to the depth of 220 feet has been encouraging but as yet no ore of a shipping value has been encountered although the indications were quite promising and a well defined vein was opened up. The management states that the fund for the purchase of the new machinery is practically assured.

MINE NEWS A[illegible]W

An important strike has been reported by Lessees Newman and Robinson, who are operating a lease on the Tenmile claim on Bull hill. The vein is stated to give assays anywhere from $4 a ton to $400 a ton. The discovery was made in a 30-foot shaft after considerable trenching was carried on in the property. The lessees will commence with the sinking of the shaft to the depth of 100 feet and then prosecute development in a vigorous manner.

MODOC CO[illegible] DRIFTING TOWARD NEW SHAFT.

The management of the Modoc Mining company is concentrating its force of miners in driving drifts from the old shaft to a point directly below the new shaft, which has now reached a depth of 100 feet. As soon as these four drifts have been carried to the required distance sinking will be resumed on the new shaft until the depth of 1,000 feet has been reached. During this heavy development work just enough production has been made to pay the mine expenses and the dividend of $5,000 per month. One carload of smelting ore is sent to the smelter at Pueblo each week.

WATER PROBLEM REDUCES MANY WORKING FORCES.

The water signal out in the vicinity has caused many of the mines to materially reduce their force of miners. One of the principal mines is the Ajax just above Victor. The Portland and Independence have their own supply and are not hampered by the present decision, but the mine mines which are in sight of one another should have to deal with the water problem from two different standpoints. The Elkton has more water than the present pumps can handle, while her neighbors are closing down for lack of sufficient water to run the machinery.

SHIPMENTS FROM [illegible] PROPERTY IN CAMP.

Forty tons of ore have just been shipped from the Elkton dump, which is being worked by Lessee Blizard. The value of the ore will average 40 to the ton. The Cripple Creek Mining company, operating a lease on the Bull City Placer, has resumed shipments from their workings. The production for the present from the main workings will be light. Lessee McCabe, who is operating block No. 3 on the Pharmacist, has sent a shipment of one carload to the smelter at Pueblo.

GOOD SHIPMENTS FROM [illegible] CONSOLIDATED.

The Mint Consolidated Mining company is making nice shipments from its properties on Gold hill. The output now amounts to about 300 tons per month, which will average about [illegible] gold to the ton. At this rate the company will have a considerable treasury reserve by the end of the year. [illegible] increases as time goes on. The company is carrying on development work in two places with encouraging results. The Mint is one of the companies under the management of W. P. Foley of Denver, who was the president of the Denver mining exchange.

COLORADO SPRINGS MINING STOCK EXCHANGE

Colorado Springs, July 17.—The trading upon the exchange this morning developed considerable weakness in two of the principal mines of the Cripple Creek district, viz., Elkton and Portland. In the former the stock opened at ½ cent below the closing of the day previous, and under a large selling order declined to 35 cents, which is a net loss of 5 cents on two days. A considerable amount of shares changed hands and here time was consumed in the call of this stock that was taken in the rest of the call. The reason assigned for the decided decline in this stock is the rumor current that the mine is going to close down temporarily on account of the serious water problem that is receiving the attention of the new management. The officers denied the closing down of the mine. Portland showed marked weakness, declining from $1.68 per share at the opening to $1.63 at the close. The demand for the stock was very light and the friends of the stock did not support it. Again the impending suit is assigned as the reason for the decline that has continued without the slightest recovery for the past week. El Paso and Isabella showed some activity, but also weakness and at the end of their respective calls sold off. The trading outside of the mines list did not amount to much and the prices of the various stocks were unchanged.

EASTERN MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

By ert W. Forstmann, Thalmann & Co., to William A. Otis & Co.:

New York, July 17.—Today's stock market had the same characteristics as that of yesterday, the volume of business, however, was larger, the activity in the low-priced stocks having stimulated commission business speculation turned the low-priced stocks to preference to the realm. Favorites and Missouri Pacific and Union Pacific—the latter under the Chesapeake & Ohio and Baltimore & New York deals—tention to favorable opportunity presented for making a profitable straddle on the September option between this market and New Orleans by selling there and buying here. Two options are selling at practically same prices whereas the normal decrease at this time is usually 20 points with September at New Orleans selling about that much under this market. The stock in New Orleans is about 65,000 bales against 90,000 last year and the bull interest there does not appear strong enough under the existing crop and speculative conditions to carry on any extended bull movement in options in that market beyond August. It will be the first to receive new cotton and we think a good deal of the new crop will come on the market in September from early picking in southwestern Texas where the crop has opened up freely already from the forcing conditions which have prevailed in that section the past month. Already there is some report of picking in that section and some ginning of bales. It will be sometime later before any new cotton can come on this market and in the meantime the differences between September and August here already seems to be too great.

CHICAGO GRAIN & PROVISIONS.

Report of Logan & Bryan to William A. Otis & Co.:

Chicago, July 17.—Wheat—Liverpool, ½ to ¾c lower, Paris unchanged. Clearances, 208,000. The market was subjected to some selling pressure early from the bear element but rallied and closed strong. The strength at the close was on reported large export business from the seaboard. St. Louis and Kansas City quoted a rather firm tone to cash markets with a fair demand. Snow's estimate of a total crop of 725,000,000 was the bearish feature of the day. Weather in the northwest has turned cooler and all reports from that section are favorable. Unless unfavorable weather comes, we rather expect the cash situation now to give the tendency to prices. It is not likely in our judgment that the movement from farmers' hands for the next few weeks will be as large as for the same time last year, but last year the movement via gulf ports was very liberal, and more of the wheat may now come into the southwest markets. With depleted stocks everywhere the demand ought to be good. Estimated, 210.

Corn—Liverpool, ½c higher. Clearances, 3,000. With the market less influenced by manipulation, yesterday's cash trade developed there was a demand for No. 3 corn at around 68 cents. This did not make September sales seem as favorable and today there was a better buying of September corn and rather free covering of September shorts. There are large vested interests of September in this market and it may develop later that that month will also be under the control of manipulation. Weather is every way favorable for growing crop and while we do not look for extremely low prices in corn, on the prospects, for during the early months of the next crop, yet we are inclined to think that December corn may be sold on any sharp rally. Estimated cars, 440.

Oats—Show estimates the crop at 875,000,000. With no stocks, however, and but few oats arriving, the shorts in July seem to be in a pinch. Threshing returns are generally favorable and with favorable weather, oats may be expected to begin moving very soon. We expect they will meet with a sharp demand. Estimated cars, 95.

Provisions—The market is easy. Receipts, hogs, 44,000, against 78,000 last year. It should be borne in mind that receipts of hogs last week at this time were very large on account of drought. Market still bears indications of liquidation by the chief owners. We regard provisions as too high to be bought and it is only a question of when it is time to sell.

Tin Market.

By Associated Press.

New York, July 17.—The metal markets today generally were more active and presented rather more features. The local market for copper reflected weakness owing to pressure from speculative sources. Electrolytic suffered most in the decline, closing at $11.87½@11.90. During the session 50,050 pounds for July delivery were sold at $11.85 and 50,000 pounds at $11.82½, while at the close more was offered at $11.80. Standard spot to August closed at $11.35@11.85, lake $11.80@12.00 and casting $11.75@11.85. London also showed signs of weakness, spot and futures closing 2s off lower at £56 2s 6d for the former and £53, 5s for futures.

In tin the local market ruled barely steady with holders showing more disposition to sell. Sales of spot at $26.95 were reported. Spot closed at $26.90. London tin again advanced under it was said, bull manipulation, gaining £4 today and closing at £118 for spot and £117 10s for futures at £117 10s. There was moderate interest shown in lead and prices were steadily maintained at the old figure at 4¼. London was unchanged at £11, 5s. Spelter improved ¼ today and ruled firm with demand more active. The close was at 5¼. London declined 2s 6d, closing at £19, 2s 6d. The iron market locally was more or less nominal at yesterday's advance. The English markets were a shade better Glasgow closing at 58s 6d and Middlesboro at 61s 3d.

COPPER LETTER.

Reported by Paine Webber & Co., to William A. Otis & Co.:

Boston, July 17.—The New York market is fast running into a big bull market and is sure to affect the Boston market before long and any demand will show no coppers for sale. We strongly advise buying them around the present level on any reaction. In New York buy the Vanderbilts stocks, New York Central, Nickel Plate 2nd preferred, and common, Peoria & Eastern. We believe they are bound for much higher prices.

The London Market.

By Associated Press.

New York, July 17.—Commercial Advertiser's London financial cablegram: Stocks today were dull and neglected except Americans where professional trading was active though the public still holds aloof. The general list of this department opened have a point above Paris on local and continental support. The fashion shifted from the grangers to low priced shares, particularly Southern Pacific, Erie, C. & O., Ont. & Western and Missouri, Kansas & Texas. New York came early as a buyer of C. & O. but a seller generally causing a temporary set back, but this was partially offset by strength in the street.

The Boss Worm Medicine.

H. P. Kumpe, druggist, Leighton, Ala., writes: "One of my customers had a child, which was sick, and threw up all food, could retain nothing on its stomach. He bought one bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge, and it brought up 115 worms from the child. It's the boss worm medicine in the world." White's Cream Vermifuge is also the children's tonic. It improves their digestion and assimilation of food, strengthens their nervous system and restores them to the health, vigor and elasticity of spirits natural to childhood. 25c at Hefley-Arcularius Drug Co.

Mrs. Hemingway and family, living on North Fourth street, will leave in a short time for their old home in Missouri. Mrs. Hemingway's husband died here a short time ago.

The condition of Russell Trimble, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Trimble, is considerably improved and while he is very weak, he will probably be all right again in a short time.

Repulsive Features.

Blackheads, pimples, greasy faces and muddy complexions, which are so common among women, especially girls of a certain age, destroying beauty, disfiguring and making repulsive, features which would otherwise appear attractive and refined, indicate that the liver is out of order. An occasional dose of Herbine will cleanse the bowels, regulate the liver and so establish a clear, healthy complexion. 50c at Hedley-Arcularius Drug Co.

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL.

New Superintendent for Training Department of the Colorado State Normal School.

Dr. Colin A. Scott, principal of the training school of the Colorado State Normal school, has resigned his position to accept a position in a state university in the east. To fill his place at the Colorado State Normal school, Dr. T. R. Croswell of the State Normal school of Bloomsburg, Pa., has been engaged. Dr. Croswell is a graduate of Bowdoin college; attended Teachers' college, Columbia university, New York city, and a graduate from Clark university, Worcester, Mass., taking his Ph. D. degree there two years ago. Dr. Croswell has his experience in all lines of school work—elementary, high school and normal school. He taught in the Chicago schools, taught in Colo. Parker's school; and for the past two years has been at the head of the training school of the State Normal school of Bloomsburg, Pa. Dr. Croswell is a ripe scholar, fine teacher and a very successful executive. He is a man of large, sympathies, refined manner and of good address. He comes to the Colorado State Normal school as thoroughly prepared for the work as a man can be. He is recommended very highly by Dr. Hyde, president of Bowdoin college, Dr. Burnham and Dr. Hodges of Clark university, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, G. Stanley Hall, president of Clark university, State Superintendent Stetson, of Maine, and President Welch, president of the State university of Pennsylvania. These men all testify as to his worth as a man, as a scholar, as a teacher and as a manager.

Mrs. Croswell, who had charge of the department of art at the State Normal school at Stephen's Point for seven years and who has developed quite a reputation as a teacher and artist, is a lady of very refined and cultivated nature.

The Path Followed by Ocean Cables.

There seems to be no logical reason why cables cannot be laid across any section of the oceans of the world, no matter how great the depth. Some portions of the Atlantic cable are over three miles below the surface, and this is not necessarily the extreme depth, for the cable may, and probably does, pass from the top of one submarine hill to another, without dropping materially into the deep valleys between. The greatest known depth of the sea is 40,236 feet, or seven and three-fifths miles, found in the South Atlantic about midway between the island of Tristan d'Acunha and the mouth of the Rio de la Plata. Soundings have been made to the depth of 27,480 feet in the North Atlantic, south of Newfoundland, and about 24,000 feet, or nearly six and a half miles, is reported south of the Bermudas. Even such enormous depths as these need not hinder cable laying, so far as the theory is concerned, but in practice, for reasons of economy in maintenance and otherwise, it is found best to take advantage of favoring conditions in the ocean's bed. To illustrate, all of the cables between the United States and Europe run up along our coast until they reach the neighborhood of Newfoundland before starting across to their destinations in Ireland or France. The reason for this is found in the range of submarine table-lands, forming an ideal cable bed, which lies between the three latter countries. In past years immense portions of this submerged territory have been plotted out and mapped by various governmental and private expeditions, and this knowledge is constantly being added to. It becomes particularly valuable in economic cable-laying. Except in extreme cases, the electrical conductor is not dropped overboard haphazard. On the contrary, the submarine mountains, valleys and plains over which it is to take its sinuous course are accurately selected beforehand, and their general configuration, soil-covering, if any, and other peculiarities properly taken into consideration. Special varieties of cable are manufactured to meet certain conditions known to exist where they are to go. Like men in all trades, the cable-layers must adhere closely to the specifications given them in starting in order to perform the right kind of work.

The steamship, therefore, while going ahead and paying out the cable over the stern pulley, is under the guidance of skilled hands, following a certain path which has been pointed out for her by sages on the mainland as being the best adapted for the comfort and ease of the electrical conductor she is depositing.—(Percie W. Hart, in Lippincott's Magazine for July.

The Crew of a Cable-Ship.

So that we may properly appreciate the subject, let us imagine ourselves on board of a typical cable-ship engaged in actual work.

We find a first-class vessel in all respects, with uniformed officers and crew, strict discipline maintained, and every other feature of expert navigation. In addition to all this, we can quickly note the unique attributes specially suited for her distinctive field of effort. To begin at the very mainspring of the whole, we find the cable coiled away in big iron tanks, situated in what would be the hold of a cargo ship. These tanks are from 30 to 40 feet in diameter, and are connected with one another by "ways," or "troughs," through which transfers can readily be made when occasion requires. The numerous machines upon deck are necessary for the proper handling of the heavy cargo, and their power can be better appreciated later. The big funnel-like objects lining the bulwarks in places are buoys, useful in marking locations. We soon discover that the ship has really three crews or departments, each with its separate chiefs and officers. Nevertheless, they must all work in harmony, one with another, or things will go wrong. There is the steamship crew,—captain, engineers, mates, quartermasters, stokers, deckhands, cooks and stewards,—but even these men must be experienced in the special difficulties in navigation and labor with which they have to contend. Then there is a certain corps who have to do with the actual cable laying, picking up, buoying, etc., although quite naturally, they are aided by the rest as occasion demands. Last of all on our list (but certainly not in importance) are the electricians, charged with the testing and calculating, which must go on continuously while the ship is at work in order to prevent costly mistakes.—(Percie W. Hart, in July Lippincott's.

Cures Sciatica.

Rev. W. A. Riley, L. L. D., Cuba, New York, writes: "After 11 days of excruciating pain from sciatic rheumatism, under various treatments, I was induced to try Bullard's Snow Liniment, the first application giving me first relief, and the second entire relief. I can give it unqualified recommendation. 50c and $1.00 at Hedley-Arcularius Drug Co.

NEWS NOTES FROM DENVER

Expensive Auditing Committee---A Case of Too Much Johnson.

Denver Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette.

Denver, July 17.—The investigating committee, which was recently appointed to go into the county accounts will cost $1,200. The commissioners this morning allowed the three men a salary of $25 per day each.

C. F. Johnson, who recently had an office in the Mining Exchange building and whose duty it was to keep money intrusted to his keeping on horse races and other sports, has disappeared as has also $30,000 which cast marks of Denver contributed to his keeping. His business was to accept money which people wished to bet on races and to place it where he thought it would win, receiving a commission for his trouble. It is supposed the commissions did not come in fast enough so he appropriated principal as well as commission.

A report from Cripple Creek says: "The Record, the local Republican organ, today announces the name of Mayor James H. Peabody for the nomination for governor on the Republican ticket. Peabody is a staunch Republican."

The Colorado Springs & Cripple Creek District railroad will open an office on Seventeenth street in this city on August 1. Thomas F. Day will be placed at the head of the Denver office. Traffic Manager Henry was in this city yesterday looking for a location.

Rupp was asked to place the matter straight and plenty of time was given him for that purpose, but instead he left town for Pueblo where he was apprehended. Rupp and Miss Lillian Johnson were to have been married on the 23rd. Rupp is at present in the county jail. The drafts for which he has lost his liberty and good name was for only $25.

NEWS NOTES FROM PUEBLO

Republicans Had Rousing Convention---Nominated C. B. Brown for Mayor.

Pueblo Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette.
With Colorado Securities Co.

Pueblo, July 17.—B. B. Brown, president of the Western National bank of Pueblo, was unanimously nominated for mayor of Pueblo at the Republican convention this afternoon in the Board of Trade building. The convention was called to order shortly after the noon hour and did not adjourn until 8 o'clock tonight. The convention was called to order by A. Wilcebom, chairman of the city central committee. C. D. Saxon took the secretary's place on the platform. Temporary chairman of the convention was elected by ballot and the result was Dr. A. T. King received 114 votes against D. V. Redyes 88. J. R. Campbell was nominated secretary and chosen by acclamation. By motion the chair was authorized to appoint a committee of five each on credentials, resolutions and rules and order of business. To allow the committees to prepare their resolutions and forms a recess of 15 minutes was taken, at the close of which time the reports of the several committees were received and adopted. The committee on resolutions presented the following articles for adoption:

Be it resolved by the Republicans of the city of Pueblo:

First. That we hereby renew our allegiance to the national Republican party.

Second. That we condemn the flagrant and unlawful attempt of the ring in the present city council to deprive the citizens of Pueblo of their undoubted right under the laws of this state to elect their chief executive and to perpetuate themselves in power by refusing to call a special election of a mayor until they were forced to do so by the courts.

Third. That we condemn the profligate and corrupt present Democratic city administration which has been unparalleled in the history of the city and deplore and condemn the unconscionable and disgraceful conduct of the majority in the present city council which has made itself the laughing stock of the state, and has brought irreparable injury and discredit upon the city.

Fourth. That we earnestly request the electors of Pueblo to consider that during the entire present city administration the city of Pueblo has stood upon the threshold of a period of unprecedented prosperity, forecasting a great and glorious future and that every action of the present administration has tended to impede and not to advance the city's progress. That the advice and counsel of the citizens, business men and taxpayers has been rejected with derision and contempt, and that public measures have been concerted and carried through by this despicable means at the sacrifice of the city's welfare in order to promote and advance the commercial and political interests of the members of the ring that has had control of the present city administration.

Fifth. That we commend the minority members of the city council for the patriotic and determined stand which they have made against the majority's ring for the protection of the city treasury and the city's general welfare.

Sixth. That we pledge the nominee of this convention to the faithful, honest and business-like administration of the office of mayor, and to the exercise of the full extent of his powers under the law to check the extravagances and corruption now existing and to maintain a government of law and order.

Seventh. That we call upon all the good citizens of Pueblo, irrespective of politics, to assist us in electing a safe, conservative and reliable mayor, who will prove an effective restraint upon the present inefficient and corrupt ring in the city election and which, unless restrained, will continue to waste the public money, increase the burden of taxation, dispose of valuable franchises without proper safeguards, and just benefits to the public, and in every manner disgrace our city and retard its progress.

Signed by the committee on resolutions.

Nominations were then announced to be in order. Attorney Hartman nominated by Bert Croyles. The third nomination was that of Frank B. Lannon by Mr. D. L. Holden. There being 200 votes cast in the convention it was necessary to obtain 101 votes for a majority for any one of the candidates. Twelve ballots were taken before that majority could be reached, in which B. B. Brown received 102 votes, and by a motion of the chair the ballot was made unanimous. Mr. Brown was carried from the back end of the convention hall to the platform on the shoulders of several of his friends, and when placed upon the platform made a short address thanking the Republicans of Pueblo for the honor of being placed upon the Republican ticket for mayor for the election to be held August 8.

After this a resolution was adopted.

Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention, that the construction of an electric line to Beulah, will be of great benefit to the city of Pueblo and to the surrounding country and the delegates to the Republican convention in body assembled hereby indorse the granting of a franchise to the Rapid Transit company.

The convention adjourned at 8 o'clock tonight.

The Habit of Outdoor Life.

The scenery here (in Idaho) is weird and strange, with a sort of rugged beauty. The deep green river rushes with swift current between the steep black lava bluffs. Here and there a stretch of fertile land widens the valley, watered by living springs. This, too, is a desert country, with rainfall so slight that crops will not mature without irrigation. Here, as in Arizona, the lizard, the horned toad and the sage brush are at home. The boys trap wildcats on the hillside near us, and the coyote's cry is often echoed from the opposite cliffs. It is lonely indeed, but we get the restfulness of the sunny days and the long quiet nights; and we find our pleasure in the closer intimacy of home life, in letters to and from our friends, in our books, and in the papers that the tri-weekly mail brings us from the busy world without. All the while we realize that the days we are spending here look forward to our resuming life at home. The gain in health has been steady, notwithstanding the exposure and changes incident to our tent life, so that we are ready to accept as true the statement now often made, that climate is not so much a specific for lung trouble as fresh air; and if it be our fortune to return to Minnesota, it will be to continue, so far as each season permits, the habit of outdoor life.—From "Tent Life for Health," by Jessie A. How to Prevent Coal Strikes.

When the United States government shall buy the coal fields of America, and operate them in the name of all the people, there will be no more strikes. Miners will be paid living wages for fair hours of work. Coal consumers will escape the regular annual gouge. Boys who are now forced into the mines before either body or mind is fit for the task, to eke out with their pitiful wages the meager earnings of their fathers, will then be kept in school to learn the lessons of useful citizenship. Thanks to John Marshall, the father of the American Constitution, and by the same token the father of American Socialism, as Mr. George Wilson of Lexington, Mo., reminds me, the federal government has indisputable power to take over the mines. It has several thousand times the amount of wealth needed for the transaction. When will it acquire the common sense?—(From "Note and Comment," by Frank Putnam, in July National.

The following Denver capitalists are named as the incorporators: D. H. Moffat, W. S. Cheesman, W. G. Evans, C. J. Hughes, Jr., G. E. Ross-Lewyn, S. M. Perry and F. B. Gibson. LATTIMER MURDER BEING INVESTIGATED

By Associated Press.

New York, July 17.—The official inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the death of Albert C. Lattimer of Brooklyn, who is supposed to have been shot by a burglar early in the morning of July 2, was begun today in Brooklyn, and late in the afternoon the hearing went over until next Monday.

Mrs. Sadie Lattimer, widow of the murdered man, was a witness today. Her story of the shooting developed nothing new. She declared that her husband was shot by a burglar.

District Attorney Clark asked Mrs. Lattimer if she had ever been in the company of W. H. Tuthill, a traveling upholstery salesman, outside of her home. She replied that she met Mr. Tuthill on one occasion in New York; that he accompanied her to her home and that she told her husband about it. In reply to other questions asked by the district attorney she said she had never entertained a Mr. Elwell, whose home is in the rear of the Lattimer house, in the absence of her husband.

C. R. Rich, who lives near the Lattimers, said when he went to the house on the night of the shooting, Mrs. Lattimer introduced him to a Mr. Tuthill. Mr. Lattimer was placed on the bed, Tuthill helping in the work and then, according to the witness, Tuthill said to Mrs. Lattimer: "Don't worry, he is all right."

Dr. Meagher, house surgeon at the hospital where Lattimer died, created a sensation when he said on the stand that the dying man exclaimed as he lay in bed on the third day: "The coward shot me in bed."

Miss Christine Russell, a nurse, testified that Lattimer said: "A coward shot me in cold blood." Once when Lattimer's brother spoke about the search for the burglar, the wounded man said: "No burglar ever shot me."

Mary L. Cahihan, another nurse, said she heard Lattimer say he knew the man who shot him and that he would tell his name when he got well.

Miss Fannie Lattimer, a sister, swore that on one occasion, she had seen Tuthill and Mrs. Lattimer meet on a street corner and had telegraphed this fact to Mr. Lattimer. She said that when her brother reached the house he found Tuthill there. There were words between the two men and then a lengthy correspondence which gradually ceased.

Police Captain Reynolds testified that after a minute examination of the doors, windows and shutters of the Lattimer house he could find not the slightest evidence of a forced entrance.

SUIT AGAINST THE NORTHERN SECURITIES

By Associated Press.

St. Paul, Minn., July 17.—Both litigants in the case of the state of Minnesota against the Northern Securities company et al, being the so-called anti-merger suit, today agreed to submit to the jurisdiction of the United States circuit court. The state waived and abandoned its motion to have the case remanded to the Ramsey county district court and the defendants abandoned their motion to set aside the service of the summons. The defendants also agreed to enter an appearance on rule day, the first Monday in August. They will then have 30 days within which to file their answer.

This means that the case will go before the United States circuit court on its merits.

The attorneys for the state entered into a stipulation to this effect with the attorneys for the Northern Securities company, the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific.

The Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads were not parties to the controversy over jurisdiction, but were the defendants in the main action brought by the state to dissolve the merger. The defendants all agree to enter a general appearance on Monday, August 4. They will then have 30 days in which to file their answer. After that the state will have the same length of time in which to reply.

These proceedings originated in an injunction suit brought by the state to restrain the Northern Securities company and J. J. Hill as president thereof from taking possession of and consolidating the stock of the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern Railroad companies and to prevent the two railroads from allowing the Northern Securities company to hold their stock or participate in the management of the property.

Baby's First Summer.

Never give the child warm water to drink, as it is as flat and distasteful a drink to the child as it would be to the adult; when properly cooled it is palatable and quenches thirst. Never cool it by putting ice in the water, as iced water is not good for the infant, and ice contains many impurities. A young infant should have two or three teaspoonfuls between its meals, also a teaspoonful after feeding, as this assists in keeping the mouth clean. An older child should be given more in proportion to its age, and a child between one and two years should drink from a half-pint to a pint of water each day.

It is often wise after a child has reached his first year to lessen the number of feedings during the heated term. If, for instance, a child is being fed once in three hours, and there is any tendency to vomiting, or loss of appetite, it will be found very beneficial to make the intervals of feeding four hours. When this is the case the quantity may be increased a little, and as a usual thing the child will continue to gain in weight, oft-times more rapidly than when it was fed more often.

A mother need not become alarmed because now and then during the summer her child refuses to take a meal, or even two. Do not force the child to eat; the little rest he insists upon giving his stomach is often the means of saving both stomach and intestines from a serious upsetting.—(Marianna Wheeler, in Harper's Bazar.

LA FOLLETTE WAS NAMED FOR GOVERNOR

By Associated Press.

Madison, Wis., July 17.—With the siege of battle over the platform in last night's convention cleared away, the Republican state convention got down to business this forenoon and proceeded to nominate a ticket. The Stalwarts, while apparently chagrined over their overwhelming defeat, will remain in the convention to the last and will not bolt as some reports have it. They will continue their organization indefinitely and will carry the fight for United States Senator John C. Spooner into the assembly districts and will not rest until the last vote is polled on election day.

The convention was scheduled to meet at 9 o'clock and it was 9:20 when Chairman Bancroft brought down his gavel and announced that the order of business was the call of districts for nomination for governor. A. S. Matthewson of Janesville responded for the First district and placed in nomination John M. Whitehead, the Stalwart candidate of Janesville.

Mr. Matthewson reviewed Mr. Whitehead's history from boyhood and reviewed the policies favored by his candidate. His utterance called for the approval from the Stalwart wing of the convention.

V. B. Chynoweth at the call of the Second district placed in nomination for governor, Robert M. La Follette. Mr. Chynoweth was tremendously applauded as he dwelt upon the principles advocated by the governor.

Robert M. La Follette of Madison was nominated for governor, the result of the ballot being as follows:

La Follette, 590; Whitehead, 286; Scofield, 5; Froehlich, 3; Abbott, 2.

James O. Davidson of Soldiers' Home was nominated for lieutenant governor.

Walter L. Houser of Mondovi was nominated for secretary of state.

John J. Kempf of Milwaukee was nominated for state treasurer. This is the first break in the slate planned to go through.

L. M. Sturdevant was nominated for attorney-general.

Charles P. Carey of Delevan was nominated for superintendent of public instruction.

John W. Thomas of Chippewa was nominated for railroad commissioner.

Insurance commissioner—Zeno M. Host, Milwaukee.

With two exceptions the ticket as a whole went through as figured out in advance. These were the nominations for state treasurer and railroad commissioner. John Kempf of Milwaukee, won the contest for state treasurer by the aid of the "Stalwart faction," who switched their votes before the ballot closed. Joseph G. End of Sheboygan had been looked upon as sure of nomination. John W. Thomas of Chippewa, landed the nomination for railroad commissioner over Jonas Swenholt, the state candidate, in a similar way.

Governor La Follette was given a great ovation upon being escorted to the convention hall after being notified of his nomination. The feature of his speech of acceptance was a stinging rebuke to those of the party who failed to support the principles laid down in the last platform. He also warned the members of the party against supporting any man aspiring to a place in the legislature who would not agree to stand by the platform.

The Weight of Ocean Cables.

The cables of the world aggregate about 180,000 nautical miles. While the bulk of this is the property of private companies, something in the neighborhood of 20,000 miles is owned or actively controlled by the different colonial powers. The British empire and France have about 5,000 and 8,000 miles respectively, Germany 2,000, and Italy 1,000. Spain was credited with 1,700 miles, but a considerable proportion of this must now apportain to the United States.

The laying of a cable across the ocean is not nearly so simple a matter as might appear at first thought. There are a number of things to be taken into account. The enormous weight of any considerable length of cable (say, for instance, sufficient to reach from Hawaii to an island of the Ladroces, or what would be only one division in a direct cable between the United States and the Philippines) is an important factor. The Great Eastern was able to carry enough for the whole distance between Valentia, Ireland, and Heart's Content, Newfoundland and successfully laid it after two attempts. But this is not so great a distance as our illustration, and, moreover, modern cables differ from their predecessors in being made much heavier and in varied types to meet certain conditions. What is known as "deep sea cable" weighs about two tons to the mile, while the inshore variety weighs 14 tons to the mile. There are other intermediate grades. Instead of using monstrous vessels, it has been found expedient to lay long distance cables in sections.—Percle W. Hart, in the July Lippincott's.

The New View Book

By far the handsomest book of views that has been published up to the present time in the state is the new book entitled "Colorado Springs and Vicinity."

It is a splendid collection of twenty-four full page pictures done in fac-simile platinum, and handsomely bound, with a specially embossed cover page.

The book is meeting with extraordinary sale. A representative of this store one day this week sold more than 600 copies to the dealers at Denver.

They all pronounced it the finest view book on the market.

We sold yesterday at retail more than twenty-five copies of it, and all are delighted with the attractiveness of the book. It sells at the extremely low price of 75c.

We are the exclusive wholesale agents. It is for sale in Colorado Springs only at our store.

Strange Disappearance of Colorado Man Missing

The mystery concerning the whereabouts of W. Z. Smith, who escaped from the custody of his nurse at St. Francis hospital last Wednesday night while in a state of violent dementia, still remains unsolved. The police have been searching for the man assiduously and shortly before dusk last evening succeeded in tracing him to a point within a short distance of Prospect lake. Darkness prevented further search for the time being, but at daylight this morning it was resumed.

It was suggested last evening that the man had drowned himself in the lake and it is quite possible that the theory is correct. Others are of the opinion that the man is wandering around on the prairie east of the city. If this be true the plight of the unfortunate fellow is pitiable indeed, as when he escaped from the hospital he was clad only in a thin night shirt and a pair of trousers. None of the ranchers in that vicinity have seen anything of him.

The police are working diligently on the case and are following the slightest clues. Yesterday Chief King and several officers made a thorough search of the territory east of the city and as has been before mentioned, traced the poor fellow to within a short distance of Prospect lake. An examination of the banks made just before dark failed, however, to reveal any trace of the man having walked to the border of or into the waters of the lake. This fact leads the police to believe that Smith has not committed suicide. Unless the man is located today, however, the lake will be dragged and may result in solving the mystery.

All efforts thus far made to communicate with friends or relatives of Mr. Smith have been unavailing, although the authorities of Lincoln, Kas. from which point he came to this city, have been notified of his mental condition and strange disappearance.

A further investigation of Smith's effects made yesterday disclosed the fact that two grips belonging to him were yet at the depot and a return coupon for his ticket home was found in the pocket of his coat.

In brief, the facts regarding Smith's actions in this city prior to his being taken to the hospital are as follows:

He arrived here last Tuesday and registered at the Antlers, but did not occupy the room assigned him, and since that time the hotel people have seen nothing of him. On Wednesday afternoon his peculiar actions attracted the attention of the police and he was taken to the city hall, where Dr. Richardson examined his condition. He states that he found Smith to be demented, but that at the time of his visit the man showed no violent symptoms and he ordered his removal to the hospital. Shortly before 11 o'clock Wednesday night Smith suddenly jumped from his bed and began throwing furniture out of the window. He then made his escape from the institution, since which time all trace of his whereabouts remains a mystery. Smith is 57 years of age.

Pacific Back in the Fold

Announcement was made yesterday morning by Chairman Elbert B. McLeod of the Western Immigration bureau, that an adjustment of the differences over immigration business, which some time ago caused the withdrawal of the Union Pacific from the association had been arranged and that railroad had come back into the fold.

The Rock Island withdrew from the association several months ago and the issue was further force by the withdrawal of the Union Pacific a short time afterward. Both of the roads are now in the association again and harmony reigns once more.

Mr. McLeod's announcement was foreshadowed by the publication yesterday morning of an Associated Press dispatch from Chicago stating that the Western Passenger association had issued a circular concerning the letter announcing the withdrawal of the Union Pacific from the bureau.

W. E. Knickern, general passenger agent of the Chicago & Northwestern, was called home yesterday on account of the death of his father, and out of respect to Mr. Knickern the bureau adjourned to meet again in Chicago next Wednesday, July 23, when the report of the committee on the European immigration business will be taken up and acted on.

Speaking of the sessions in this city during the past week, Mr. McLeod said: "The conference has been a satisfactory one from every standpoint, perhaps the most satisfactory ever held, both from a business point of view and socially. Everybody has had a good time. The trip to Cripple Creek was fine and the entertainment here at the Antlers has been very enjoyable. It is a great hotel."

THE RETIREMENT OF GENERAL SMITH.

WHEN the first serious accusations were made against American army officers in the Philippines, President Roosevelt emphatically declared that all charges worthy of consideration would be carefully investigated and that all guilty officers would be promptly punished.

The pledge of the army authorities has been sincerely and honorably kept. It has been found that there was a basis of truth in the accusations, and the military courts, instead of condemning hastily and indiscriminately, as many newspapers and politicians have done, has carefully separated out the facts and acted upon them with absolute impartiality and with the severity essential to military discipline.

A good example of this is to be found in the case of General Jacob H. Smith, who has been retired from active service by order of the president. General Smith is by no means the demon of cruelty that he has been pictured to be in the columns of the partisan newspapers. He is an American officer of long and honorable service, and one who might, under proper conditions, accomplish a great deal of good in his country's cause. But the record shows that under circumstances of great provocation he did issue an order that was inconsistent with the high principles of humanity by which American officers are expected to be guided, and accompanied this with verbal instructions to his subordinates that were certainly indiscreet and unsuitable for an American commanding general.

It was urged on behalf of General Smith that these orders did not result in the loss of any native lives, except possibly in the case of Major Waller, for whose acts the Smith order was not directly responsible. There is also some ground for believing that the Smith order was issued for the purpose of terrifying the natives and was not intended to be taken as literal instructions to American colonels, captains and lieutenants.

The fact remains, however, that General Smith's order was unquestionably savage, brutal and un-American. Its presence in the official records reflects discredit upon the American army and the American character. At least it was an indiscretion for an American commanding general.

The punishment imposed by the president is not a serious one, and it ought not to have been. There is a law that provides that officers who have reached the age of 62 years may be retired at will by the president. The president has exercised his discretionary power under this law and has placed General Smith upon the retired list.

As usual the critics of the administration will be divided into two classes, those who believe that the punishment was undeserved, and those who believe that it was quite inadequate to the offense. It is not worth while discussing these differences. The president has acted according to what he believed to be for the good of the army and the honor of the people, and his action will unquestionably have a good effect both as establishing the purpose of the army authorities to investigate and to punish impartially this class of offenses, and as indicating American commanding officials of the responsibility that attaches to official orders and statements.

THE WISCONSIN CONVENTION.

THE Wisconsin Republican convention resulted in a complete victory for the La Follette forces over the so-called Stalwarts, with which latter faction United States Senator Spooner had become to a certain extent identified. But the result of the convention was something more than the personal victory of one political leader over another. It involved a matter of principle, and one in which the country generally is deeply interested.

The contest in Wisconsin centered upon what is known as the reform primary law, a measure which is intended to reduce the power of party machinery and bosses to a minimum and to make the voters of the party the real choosers of the party candidates.

The defeat of Governor La Follette and the defeat of the Stalwarts is therefore a conclusive demonstration of popular sentiment in favor of the new plan of party primary elections, and a fresh proof of the inability of machines and bosses to control political affairs when the direct public sentiment is aroused against them.

In the official statement regarding the removal of the troops from Colorado it is made perfectly clear why it is entirely proper that they should not return to occupy under the present circumstances the positions they held when the troops were in control of the islands. The action in question does not originate with the American people, which has no partiality for or against any religious sect or organization. It is the people of the Philippine Islands who are Catholic, who object to the control of the friars, and these objections include not only the friars' political activities as regards a man, but the friars themselves. It is also stated that as a matter of fact the friars have been expelled from the places in question because they have not for many years enjoyed the confidence and affection of the people and have been held in hostility and possession. The friars are a religious order, and the case, and the information shows that they appreciate this.

PENSION FOR MRS. MEEKER.

CONGRESS is usually criticised for its sins of omission rather than praised for what it actually accomplishes, but the last congress did an act of justice in renewing the pension of Mrs. N. C. Meeker, which is gratifying to all residents of Colorado who remember the time when the Indians were a very real menace to the settler and miner. To most people the name of Meeker means only a small settlement on the White river, but back of that lies the tragic story of the last Indian outbreak of any importance in Colorado: the murder of Mr. Meeker, the capture of his wife and daughter, and the killing of Major Thornburgh.

Nathan C. Meeker was in many ways a remarkable man and his true monument is not the little town which bears his name, but the flourishing city of Greeley, which he founded. Before coming to Colorado, he was a friend and associate of Horace Greeley and was agricultural editor of the New York Tribune. He made his first trip to Colorado in 1868 and wrote a series of letters to the Tribune describing the scenery and resources of the state which was then only a mining region of unknown possibilities. Denver, Colorado City and Pueblo were settlements of small importance, while Colorado Springs, Greeley and Boulder didn't exist at all.

Standing in the Garden of the Gods one winter's night just after Christmas, under the brilliant star-studded sky of Colorado, Mr. Meeker had a vision of a beautiful town, the home of intellectual and moral ideas and of temperance, grown up in the desert which surrounded him. He realized his own vision in the town of Greeley, while others realized it in the town of Colorado Springs, which was to grow up not far from the spot where he then stood. Filled with ambition to carry out this ideal, which had come to him like an inspiration, he returned to New York, organized a mass meeting in Cooper Union, and formed the Union colony for a settlement in Colorado. They bought 40,000 acres of land between the Cache la Poudre and the South Platte and in 1870 settled the present town of Greeley. The colony wished to call itself Meeker, but he insisted that it should be named after his friend, the great editor of the Tribune. Irrigation was the first necessity and a canal 30 miles long and costing $60,000 was built. Mr. Meeker was the pioneer in introducing upland irrigation in Colorado, which has done so much to develop the agricultural resources of the state that he deserves a monument for that if nothing else; he also founded and edited the Greeley Tribune.

Having seen his colony well started on a successful career, he turned his attention to a question which had long interested him, the Indian problem, and in 1878 was appointed by President Hayes agent to the Utes on White river. Like many pioneers and idealists his ideas on this question were far in advance of his time and are only just beginning to be realized; his solution of the Indian problem was to civilize them by making them work and by changing them from savages to agriculturalists, but the time had not come for such an evolution. The Utes were still in the hunting stage, deer were plentiful in the mountains, and they preferred to follow the track of the wild animal to the furrow of the plough. Mr. Meeker was not a man to be turned from the path of duty by difficulty or danger and he persevered in his task of mixing oil and water or fire and gunpowder with inevitable result of an explosion. The Utes at first friendly, became suspicious, threatening and dangerous and finally on September 29, 1879, murdered Mr. Meeker and all the male employes of the agency, carried Mrs. Meeker and her daughter into captivity, where they were held for three weeks.

Major Thornburgh and his troops, who were hastening from Fort Steele to the rescue of the agency, were surrounded by superior numbers and the commander and thirteen men killed. There was every prospect of a prolonged Indian war, but as soon as Ouray, the head chief of the Ute nation, heard of the outbreak, he sent word to the White river chiefs to stop fighting and they obeyed. A commission arranged for the release of the captives and the removal of the White river Utes to a new reservation. Miss Meeker received a clerkship in one of the Washington departments where she died in 1883. Mrs. Meeker was voted a pension for 20 years; this lapsed in 1900, but has now been renewed for life through the efforts of old-time friends who appreciated the services to the state and the hardships endured by the Meeker family in the pioneer days.

HUMAN LIVES WASTED.

MEDICAL OFFICER DIGGS, of the New York health department recently made an address before the summer school in philanthropic work, conducted by the Charities organizations society of that city. In it are some statements that are worthy of the widest publicity and most serious attention:

"Thousands of people die because their physicians have not the moral courage to say to them, 'this is tuberculosis and this is the time to take precautions.'

"In the case of autopsies in the New York hospitals which have come under my knowledge, fully 60 per cent had had sometime in their lives tuberculosis. Of these a little more than half had died of that disease. The remainder had recovered and in many instances had not known of its existence in their systems. A third of those who die in our hospitals die of consumption. In some of the older cities of Europe, the proportion is much greater.

"The tubercular bacilli do not multiply outside the system. They tend to die. Infection is by the original bacillus, if at all. Large numbers are quickly destroyed. Direct sunlight destroys them quickly, daylight in time. The danger is in dark, damp rooms.

"Tuberculosis is an absolutely preventable disease. It is not only preventable but curable. It is simply a question of how early a diagnosis is made. If it can be made at the beginning, 90 per cent at least of the cases are curable if placed in a pure atmosphere."

Two facts are well established by medical science and experience:

TUBERCULOSIS, IN ITS EARLIER STAGES IS UNDOUBTEDLY A CURABLE DISEASE.

THE CLIMATE AND OTHER CONDITIONS IN COLORADO ARE, IN THE GREAT MAJORITY OF CASES, EXCEPTIONALLY FAVORABLE TO SUCH CURES.

Add to these the further fact that Colorado Springs is the city above all others in the west that is especially adapted to receive and to care for the semi-invalids of the early stages of tuberculosis, and we have a basis sufficient to build our present health resort to many times its present proportions.

There are literally and without exaggeration, tens of thousands of people in the United States today who are [illegible] heroic lives to do not know what Colorado [illegible] do for them.

And the love that in them lies
And that will

Riding; boating;
Busy every day;
Loved very much, and loving—some!

CORRESPONDENCE.

A Disgusted Spectator.

To the Editor of the Gazette:

In company with a number of gentlemen I witnessed the game of baseball between St. Joseph and Colorado Springs at Boulevard park Wednesday. I was in a position to see the pitcher's work, and also commanding a good view of the field work, and will say that in all of my experience as a ball player, up until the last few years, I never saw more just decisions than were rendered by the umpire on the above occasion. I never saw a more disgraceful or ungentlemanly act than that of McKibben, who allowed his foul mouth to give utterance to such vile language in such a tone of voice as to be heard by ladies and gentlemen seated near him. I never saw such a cowardly act as he made upon the umpire, backed up by one of his ruffian players who was trying to use a ball bat. Such actions as these ruffians displayed will surely bring baseball into that repute that ladies and gentlemen will refuse to attend the games. We certainly applaud Mr. Burns for his manly statement and the action he took in this case, and we sincerely hope that these ruffians will be barred from playing ball before any respectable audience hereafter. There is no reason for such actions on a ball field, nor for jangling over the umpire's decisions. The umpire is in a position to see every ball pitched to catch every play, and is, therefore, more competent to make decisions than players who are watching many other things, and who are not in a commanding position. No umpire can change his decision without bringing discredit upon himself, and President Sexton and the baseball owners should enforce rules of suspension for any player, the captain not excepted, who for a moment questions an umpire's decision.

We pay our money to see ball played, not wrangling, and until the latter is stopped many lovers of the game will remain at home.

As a ball-loving public we ask Mr. Burns and other owners of ball teams to make a rule to stop their captains and players from saying a word during the play to the umpires. Do this and we will patronize your games liberally.

Respectfully,

A. Spectator.

FROM THE PRESS OF THE NATION.

Uncle Tom's Cabin Again.

(Topeka State Journal.)

Once again a theatrical company has visited Topeka and murdered the play of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" — perhaps not such a brutal murder as some of those which have been perpetrated in the past, but bad enough to warrant a life sentence for all the performers.

Theatrical managers say that this play presented in a legitimate manner, would not pay. They say, also, that to present the play properly requires as strong a cast as does the Shakespearean drama, and that the pub lic will not support one any better than they do the other. This may be true. If so, it is an argument in support of Mansfield's much abused theory that the stage is in decadence because of debasing popular demand.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" is not legitimately a comedy nor a mask for a minstrel show. It is a drama of pathos. It is illuminated by the lambent fires of tragedy, which burst forth with volcanic fury in the flight of the slave-woman Eliza, the murder of Uncle Tom and the ghastly unfolding of Simon Legree. There is strictly speaking, only one comedy part in the play, that of Topsy, the impish persecutor of Miss Ophelia. The rest of the comedy of the story is mere incidental with minor characters such as little Harry, and Sambo with his companions.

Marks, the lawyer, is not a drunkard nor a fool. He is a sly sneak, devoid of manly courage and fitted only for doing the meanest work in an underhanded manner. He sips his mint julips, listens at keyholes and draws up legal documents with loopholes in them for his own use. Legree, the slave driver, is not a loud mouthed bullyer, but is a grim, murderous brute who fears neither God nor man, but who, like many ignorant sinners, is intensely superstitious. Mr. Slave Owner found his weak point and played it with fiendish art until he drove her from him to a horrible death. Miss Ophelia would not fine a young, healthy, —[illegible] shrew, but a stern, obtuse very dignified and Spartan-like female, whose systems do not work the same in New Orleans as they did in Vermont. Again it should be remembered that Harriet Beecher Stowe did not paint little Eva as a loafing baby, who was barely able to totter across the state of action, but as a child just budding into maidenhood, sufficiently mature to go on a dashing horseback ride with her cousin. Finally, the character of Uncle Tom has been maliciously distorted. Tom is not a decrepit old man, with bunches of snowy hair on the sides of his head. His life ended when at the prime of his manhood. He had just been purchased by Legree for the sum of $1,200, the current price of first class slaves. At the opening of the book he was comparatively a young man, and at his death was probably not far from 40 years of age, and a hale, muscular man, not the feeble, trembling shadow of the modern drama.

William A. Brady presented in New York the bona fide "original" of Uncle Tom's cabin. It was truly termed a "revival" of the old play. It was a wonderful success—one of the hits of the season. Perhaps there is hope that some day William A. Brady or some other manager equally as good will put such a "revival" on the road. It would be well worth paying fancy prices to see.

Not a Card Sharp.

(Youth's Companion.)

A cautious American traveling from Paris to Nice found a stranger in the compartment in which he had secured a berth.

"Are you Mr. ...?" said the stranger.

The American in surprise answered affirmatively.

"Ha!" said the stranger. "I inquired at the booking office who was to be my traveling companion."

The American realized that this was no ordinary man, and soon found himself almost hypnotized by the stranger's commanding eyes.

When the man proposed cards, the American suspected that he was a professional gambler. He made many excuses, finally saying that he cared for none of the games which his companion suggested.

"All right," was the discomfiting reply; "we'll play anything you like."

When the American mentioned an obscure French game, which he hoped the other would not know, and found his suggestion taken up eagerly, he was more than ever suspicious.

"But," asked the American, "do you know how to play it?"

"No," was the reply, "but you can teach me."

The American now had but little doubt that the man was a card expert, looking for a victim, but as no suggestion of high stakes was made he concluded to venture, and after some hours playing had seen nothing on the part of his fellow passenger that looked like cheating.

But when next morning his companion suggested that they play again to while away the time, the American grew suspicious again and pleaded a headache.

When they entered the station at Nice the man handed the American his card. It bore the name of Lord Russell of Killowen, Lord Chief Justice of England.

Antis' New Hero.

(New York Press.)

Aguinaldo having fizzled as a second George Washington and Lopez having been exposed, Gardener having been proved an irresponsible gossip and Malvar and Lukban having taken the oath of allegiance, the "Antis" have been at their wits' end lately for a hero. This want is now, it seems, to be supplied by the Moro sultan of Bacalod. Already the organs of the ghost dancers have begun to talk about a "lack of tact" on the part of Colonel Baldwin and of the "firm stand" taken by the sultan. This bloodthirsty savage, who is insisting upon the right of himself and his followers to murder any one at any time especially Americans, will make an ideal hero for the "Antis." Being entirely without moral attributes they will be able to give their fancy full play in investing him with every noble quality. He is a virgin page, as it were, whereon they can inscribe beautiful and touching things.

The manner in which the sultan's people steal up through the jungle and behead unsuspecting American soldiers appeals strongly to the heart of the anti-Imperialist, and the old savage's attachment to that playful custom of his forefathers, running amuck, fills him with admiration. They are taking up the lovelock gentleman a little gingerly, so many of their heroes have proved unworthy of late by accepting the rule of the United States and coming from their killings of soldiers and civilians that the "Anti" has learned caution. But at present it looks as if the sultan would so comfort himself as to qualify in every respect for an anti-Imperialist hero.

No Fears For Governor Taft.

(Salt Lake Tribune.)

We think that any fears to the effect that Governor Taft does not understand the true and complete separation between church and state under our institutions, or that he is at all likely to enter into any undue negotiations with the Vatican, may safely be dismissed as altogether superfluous. Governor Taft went to Rome on a straight business proposition; he has pursued his negotiations strictly along business lines, and, on memoranda and instructions forwarded to him from Washington. There need be no suspicion that he is negotiating with the Vatican for the pacification of the Philippines, for the sufficient reasons that we do not need any help in that, and that the pacification is already complete, save for the criminal acts to be expected in a country whose institutions are new. Governor Taft is not a man that needs any instruction in those matters; he is a lawyer of eminence, of supreme court caliber, an able statesman, and no man in this country understands as well as he what the problem is on which he is engaged. The Vatican has come to his terms on every proposition save one—the withdrawal of the friars, and we firmly believe that he will yet succeed in that; not with the Vatican's direct order, perhaps, but by the action of the superiors of the friars' orders in such manner as they know how to take effective action without loss of prestige. The critics of Governor Taft in this matter could be wheedled and overreached a thousand times where he would not be once.

Whistler's Latest.

(New York Times.)

Here, according to an artist just returned from Paris, is James McNeill Whistler's latest:

A group of American and English artists were discussing the manifold perfections of the late Lord Leighton, president of the Royal academy.

"Exquisite musician. Played the violin like a professional," said one.

"One of the best dressed men in London," said another.

"Danced divinely," remarked a third.

THE STRENGTH
Of a financial institution is based largely upon its available assets, proper management, good name and volume of business. Measured by these standards, The Assurance Savings and Loan Association of this city, stands deservedly high. Its assets were increased from $148,089.38 in 1900 to $168,768.27 in 1901; it has been actively in business for eight years without incurring a material loss; its character for integrity has never been questioned, and the volume of its business has nearly doubled during each of the last two years. Participating members of the Association receive from four to eight per cent annual interest, according to the nature of their deposits.
